Albany, N.Y., Sept. 4.—[Special]—In celebrated Knapp case, the big test in the political annals of the American feminist movement, was held today with imposition of a sentence that is creating almost as much public resentment as the prisoner's crime did.

Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, and leader in the higher education of women, was sent to jail for thirty days for stealing $30,000 from the state of New York. The maximum penalty for the crime of which she was convicted after two trials is ten years in prison.

The thirty day jail sentence is received by the public as a travesty.

Confined to Sheriff's Home.

Her treatment instantly aroused Mrs. Knapp's proved peculations reached nearly $10,000. Her total loot is believed by many to have been five times that amount. As the state officials in charge of the state census, she paid her role and then made personal affidavits of the receipt of salaries of persons who never saw either the Knapps or a penny of the plunder.

Traced by Ink Brand.

And she not insisted when she took the ink upon using a special kind of pen and special brand of ink, which she always had used instead of consenting to draw on the state's supplies of stationery, her thievings might not have been discovered.

The names she wrote into the pay rolls with her peculiar pen and ink attracted the attention of an inquisitive state employee.

Curiosity became suspicion and suspicion led to long investigations, of which the final result is that the former dean of the college of home economics at Syracuse university is almost within reach of science. Page 31.

THE LOUD SPEAKER AND THE SPEAKEASY

Half a Million Enter Schools; a City Record

Incomplete reports to Supt. William J. Bogan late last evening indicate all enrollment records were broken on the opening of the public schools yesterday.

The regular routine of the schools will begin within two days when registration is completed. Mr. Bogan declared. "When all the figures are tabulated we probably shall have about 500,000 students in the schools."

An increase of approximately 4,000 pupils in the senior high schools was predicted by Mr. Bogan on the basis of incomplete returns. The report showed that 67,131 students registered for those schools during the day, compared with an enrollment of 64,000 last year.

Howard Haskins, 23, a bond salesman of Aurora, Ill., was fatally injured when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile as he was crossing Addison street at Melvinia avenue. Oscar A. Olson, Villa Park, Ill., driver of the machine, was held pending the inquest. This death raised Cook county's motor toll to $41 since Jan. 1.

James E. Boyer, 41 years old, a carpenter foreman, his wife, Jane, 38, and their daughter, Betty Jane, 8, were killed last night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a South Shore electric train at an unprotected crossing at Fayette street in the outskirts of Gary. Their machine was demolished.

Howard Haskins, 23, a bond salesman of Aurora, Ill., was fatally injured when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile near Columbia City, Ind. He was on his way to Sparta, O., to visit his fiancee, Miss Betty Bishop, to whom he had become engaged while both were attending Aurora college.

few sand flats, offered some semblance to what we expected to find at the University of Michigan landing field. We circled Lake Tasiak for some time in search for a field under a mountain wall such as had been described to us. In this area at an elevation of 5,000 feet, which at times would barely scrape the tops of mountains and ice, we found the air so rough that it was a hard job to keep our seats.

Decide to Land on Ice.

Rationalizing now that our gas supply was at its very lowest, we decided to take towards the inland ice again and set down on some flat stretch which would save the ship. We found such an area covered with ice and made our landing. Parker Cramer immediately sent out messages that we had landed on the ice and were talking to Camp Lloyd, which at that time, we felt, was probably a day away.

Equipped with parkas, boats, and provisions, we started over the ice to the land border. We encountered many hardships when we reached the crevasses within the ice.

With the aid of a very complete map we were able to make deductions as to the streams which we traced. Our walk that we intended to extend over some twenty-four hours proved to turn into days, as it was necessary for us to return to the land on several occasions in order to arrive at the fjord which would lead us to Camp Lloyd. By this time our food supply was getting very low and we put ourselves down on a ration of five ounces a day. Cramer shot a couple of ptarmigan. After a night in a cave and this ptarmigan breakfast we could start out again with a smile on our faces, determined that another half day would hold something better.

Forced to Retrace Steps.

After climbing over the mountains and getting as close location as possible we would have to back-track, due to the steep rock wall, which would sometimes take us another half day to overcome.

Hemmmed in by a river of glacial water near the freezing point that had to be crossed we found the situation to be a little embarrassing. At one point we were crossing a stream with our clothes wrapped up in our parkas on our heads. We went through the water so fast that it covered "Shorty" Cramer. When we reached the stone bank on the other side it required several hours to get dried out and nurse the cuts and bruises on our legs. All this time we were paralleling the ice seeking to find the fjord that would lead us to Camp Lloyd.

Trapped by Quicksand.

At times big clay banks would stand in our way and we would see sand flats for miles below us. On two occasions we took what we thought was an advantage and started to cross the flat but soon found that we were against a problem of quicksand rather than hills.

At one of these flats Cramer found himself above his hips in quicksand and we soon went back to the old theory that the longest way round was the shortest way home.

Going back to the tundra and rocks we decided that the shore line of the fjord was the best bet to continue along. "Shorty" Cramer kept continually studying the map and it was a beautiful piece of land navigation that almost gave us our exact location.

Consider Building a Raft.

We had kept track of days fairly well and we were certain that Prof. Hobbs' expedition was going to leave Greenland close to Sept. 1. It was on this date that we lay on the side of a hill pondering whether we should walk back to the ice and come back on the north side of Sondre Stromfjord, and should we miss Camp Lloyd we would in that case still be MOUNT EVANS, Greenland, Sept. 4.—The Nakuk, a motor sloop of twenty tons, arrived at daybreak this morning, bringing coal and winter supplies for the observatory. It is to take out to the coast the summer party of the expedition, composed of Belknap, Assistant Director Stewart, Potter, Etes, and the director [Prof. Hobbs].

With us will go Hassell and Cramer, who will leave the boat at Sukker toppen, along with Belknap, Stewart, and Etes. There a motor sloop will be chartered for this party to take them to Godthab, and by the same methods on another chartered sloop to Ivigtut, in a distance of 450 miles from Camp Lloyd.

In U. S. Oct. 9.

The University of Michigan contingent of this party is to proceed to Philadelphia on the ore steamer Wadsworth, leaving about Sept. 29 and due to reach that port about Oct. 9. The Danish government has been requested by radio to include Hassell and Cramer among the passengers. They are officially members of our expedition in the files of the foreign office at Copenhagen.

Hassell and Cramer are today very lame and hardly able to walk, but they will be quite normal after a few days of rest.

An attempt will at once be made to salvage the instruments and, if possible, the motor and propeller blades of the airplane Greater Rockford, which was left undamaged on the inland ice about 70 miles as the crowns fly.

able to get to settlements in the Holsteiner district.

We thought for a long time of weaving a raft of shrub willows to put our clothes on and swimming the fjord with the raft in tow. These seemed to be our only alternatives, as we were certain that if we continued southwest we would eventually be bottled up by steep cliffs and inland ice that borders Sondre Stromfjord to the south.

Cramer Spies Sail.

After a scant sleep of a few hours, Cramer spied what he thought was a sail, but our eyes had played us so many tricks in the past that I was not enthusiastic.

However, we started to watch it for an hour, and we could see that it was making a steady progress to the northeast, which was against the flow of the current. We risked one shot with our rifle, knowing that we had four left to use for obtaining the distance, but apparently owing to the distance the shot must have sounded like a cap pistol. We then lit a fire to serve two purposes; one to rid us of the mosquitoes, and the other to attract the attention of the boat.

We decided then that Camp Lloyd must be one of the three camps that we could see on the other side. It was our intention to walk to the point and build a fire that night. That with the aid of our pistol, would attract attention from three directions. Going down the south side very slowly we decided to loaf and wait until we found turns. It was about this point that both Cramer and I felt certain we heard the hum of a motor, but we decided that it was mosquitoes that had imbedded themselves in our ears.

We planned during the last two days of our walk to return to the flies from Camp Lloyd. It is only about ten miles within the ice margin, but about 100 miles by their route from here. We estimated that this journey will require about twenty days.

Organize Salvage Party.

For this difficult work I am sending Carlson with two Eskimo caribou hunters, Marlin and Nathaniel. Marlin was a member of Bangstad's ice cap party of last winter, which spent the winter stranded on the inland ice not forty miles distant from the stranded plane.

This party will try to recover the accessories, navigating and other instruments, to bring back with them, and, if at all possible, they will remove the motor and propeller in parts and cache them outside but near the edge of the ice. Later in the winter, when the snow which fills the river beds and the smooth ice surfaces on the lakes make good sledding, Marlin will go in with his dogsled and bring out the heavier parts.

U. S. Offers Ship to Hassell.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—(AP)—The coast guard has offered Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer passage on the cutter Marion from Ivigtut to the fjord.

In reply to a message from the Marion, asking permission to pick up the flyers, the coast guard instructed the Marion to offer passage and to proceed to Ivigtut for the crew of the Greater Rockford if the offer is accepted.

The Marion advised headquarters that "the situation is not urgent," since a steamer will sail from Ivigtut for Philadelphia the latter part of this month, and there are regular fortnightly sailings from Greenland to Copenhagen.

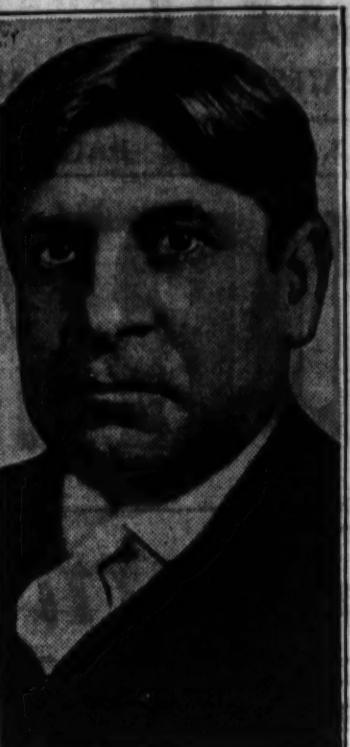

Simultaneously with Senator's Schall's announcement, it was revealed that Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Farm Loan board in his stay at Cedar Island Lodge over the week-end had given President Coolidge very comforting reports regarding the conditions of farm banks and by implications regarding the agricultural situation in the country generally.

Judge Hardy said he voluntarily had given legal advice to the two women for a number of years and that they had many times requested a bill, "which I always refused."

"I told them, however," the jurist said, "that if they wanted to pay me for my services, they could do so."

The payment was made about Aug. 12, 1926, the judge said, when the star at the time the congressionally appointed jury was investigating the famous kidnaping of the evangelist. Later the star was called by the state as a witness in Mrs. McPherson's conspiracy trial and he testified to his belief she had been kidnaped.

Schall said he was still disappointed that the equalization fee principle has not been adopted in the Republican platform, and felt that Hoover might have been more definite in his speech of acceptance regarding the agrarian question.

As far as Minnesota is concerned, Senator Schall said that the contest would be very close. He predicted that the state would finally go Republican.

COURTESY STAR IS TAKEN AWAY FROM DEFENDANT

Although Hudson avenue police were

HOPE FOR PEACE IN CONFERENCE ON MOVIE MUSIC

U.S. Conciliator Arranges for Parley Today.

Ninety-five per cent of Chicago's movie theaters were still musicless last night, although there appeared during the day a hope of settling the dispute between the theater owners and the musicians' union.

Musicians of the affected theaters—practically all the movie houses except the more de luxe houses of the loop and the principal outlying business centers—refused to return to work after their contracts expired Saturday night. The cause of the deadlock was the inability of the owners and the union to agree on working rules involving the number of musicians to be employed under new contracts.

R. M. Marshman, conciliator of the department of labor, initiated the peace move, which may bring the leaders of both sides together today for a parley. Marshman played a similar rôle last year in the strike of the movie operators.

Both Sides Favorable.

At the situation stood last night, both sides looked with favor on the plan to hold a parley, the time and place of which was to be further considered today.

One stumbling block to a joint conference was removed by Joseph E. Fleming, attorney for the Exhibitors' association. Mr. Fleming gave assurance that operation of the injunction issued Saturday from Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson by the association would not subject representatives of the union to contempt of court charges if they participated in a peace parley.

James Petrillo, head of the union, had announced that he feared court action should be taken against a peace move as well as the injunction in force. He said he had declared no strike but had simply informed his men that "nobody can make you work if you don't want to after your contract has expired."

Last night Marshman informed Petrillo of Fleming's attitude, after which it was reported, Petrillo indicated a willingness to sit in a peace meeting if one could be arranged, but he would make no positive statement.

Norshore Orchestra Quits.

One additional theater was hit by the walkout last night when the musicians quit at the Norshore theater, 1190 North Dearborn street. This is a Balalaika theater.

The Norshore orchestra of fifteen pieces took the position that because no music program is given in the afternoon this theater properly belongs in the "class 6" type of movie, which is the class involved in the controversy.

Exhibitors met at noon to vote confidence in their executive committee, headed by Jack Miller, president, and Louis Petrillo, Petrillo and his committee met with their counsel, Clarence Darro, Donald Richman, and David Lichtenfeld. Later it was announced that "the situation is unchanged."

Calm Good Attendance.

The "silent houses" continued last night to play to good audiences, managers declared. In a number of the affected theaters a sign was displayed which read:

"Our organist has failed to report for work. Therefore this performance will be without music."

A total of about 700 musicians are idle, according to union leaders.

operators employed in the affected theaters might walk out in sympathy was not verified yesterday. The fact that the walkout came with the expiration of contracts and that the union disavows calling a strike would prevent a sympathetic strike, it was understood.

Lack of music has not materially affected vaudeville programs, booking agents insisted yesterday. In its place, pantomime and acrobatics have taken the place of song and dance skits, it was explained. Movietones and similar mechanical contrivances are to degree being substituted for the absent musicians, it was said.

108 DAYS AND JAIL IS STILL WAITING TO RECEIVE JOE

Joe Saltis, convicted beer baron, spent his 108th day yesterday as a fugitive from justice since his conviction for gun toting. Chicago police were given a capias for Joe's arrest, and ordered to pick Joe up 108 days after his trial and sentence. None consented to review the gun toting case. Twenty months ago Joe was sentenced to serve sixty days in the Bridewell and pay a $50 fine. Though a search has been made for Saltis since he exhausted his last legal expedient to escape punishment, Chicago police still maintain they are unable to get track of the beer runner-gangster.

ROBBERS SLAY POLICEMAN IN PISTOL BATTLE

Father of Two Children
Dies on Duty.

Policeman Leonard Jagla, 29 years old, the father of two children, was shot dead by three gunmen yesterday when he sought to prevent their escape from a cigar store at 805 South Kedzie, where they had been in the act of robbing. One of the robbers was captured.

Jagla, with Lieut. Albert Mikes and Frank Dwyer, was cruising past the store when they noticed the three men enter it, and suspected from their appearance that something was wrong. They returned and tried the door. Finding it locked, Jagla hurried to the rear entrance, while Lieut. Mikes pounded on the front door for admittance.

Robbers Run to Rear.

Immediately the robbers, who had already robbed a customer and were turning their attention to the proprietor, made a dash for the rear doorway. Jagla's voice was heard shouting, "Stop 'em up!" and a rattle of shots followed.

One of the three men leaped over a back fence and almost into the arms of Dwyer, who covered him with his weapon immediately.

"I surrender," gasped the robber; "your buddy's been shot."

Jagla was rushed at once to St. Anthony's hospital, but was pronounced dead by physicians. Four shots entered his body, one just above the heart.

Dwyer's prisoner identified himself as Morris Luce of 812½ Monroe street. He and his accomplices were said by the police to be tramps who came to Chicago from other cities. Luce was questioned immediately in an effort to learn the identities of the others before they escaped. Police intimated that they were known.

First Under New Chief.

It was the first instance of the killing of a policeman since Commissioner William Russell took office.

Deputy Commissioner John Stege characterized Jagla as one of the best and bravest men on the force. He was distinguished particularly for his work in the "Dixie" case, the mail robbery trial, and for the occasion when he and Stege routed a criminal named Moyn who had killed five policemen from the vantage of a flat on North Kedzie avenue.

LEVINE CATCHES BOAT, BUT LEAVES
HIS PALS IN LURCH

CHERBOURG, France, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine caught his boat for home tonight but he left behind him in an embarrassing position his pilot, Bert Acosta, two Dutch test pilots and even his new plane, Queen of the Air.

The four men had flown here from Paris. Gendarmes inquired somewhat idly where the log book and passports were that French air regulations require all planes to carry. The explanation of "got to catch a ship," failed to satisfy them as far as Acosta and the Dutch pilots, Mencken and Wickenden were concerned and they were detained.

A somewhat flurried Levine dug hastily through his baggage and finally uncovered his passport.

error, with three candidates in the field the race was closer. Luren D. Dickison, present lieutenant governor, was leading the field. Fred L. Green will probably show a 3 to 1 vote over his opponents.

Eight members of congress, all Republicans, were renominated without opposition.

HERRICK LANDS IN U. S. WITH A BOOST FOR G. O. P.

New York, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France, returned today on the Ile de France to be in the United States until late November.

"America has become a creditor nation," he said, "and our financial interests are intermingled with all other nations in a manner that never existed before. It is because the rest of the world looks to us and depends upon us that we should avoid charges."

Mr. Herrick said he regarded the treaty for the outlawry of war as "one of the greatest of recent events."

Lorette, Pa., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Charles M. Schwab is one big business man who is not going to take part in the presidential campaign.

"I think more of my job than I do of politics," said Schwab today. "They wanted me to be treasurer of the G. O. P. campaign, but I turned it down."

Mr. Schwab was cautious when questioned on his choice.

"I think," he said, "they are both very good men."

FRENCH FLYERS PLAN GRAND AIR TOUR OF AMERICA

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The "big sergeants" of French aviation, who landed here this afternoon, are across the south Atlantic and on to New York. Their dreams do not stop there, for already they talk of no return to fly from New York to Paris.

Whether their passenger and financial backer, Armand Lotti, will continue on the carefree air adventure was not learned. He had concealed himself on the plane at Paris when it took off this morning. His parents know nothing of his intention to accompany the flyers.

No Reservations to Safeguard America.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—(Special)—Acceptance by Great Britain and France of the Kellogg anti-war treaty by Great Britain and France with numerous reservations has led to the fore the question of American reservations to protect our national interests.

American reservations suggested by the circumstances fall broadly into two classes. In one class would be those making it clear that in entering the war renunciation compact, we do not involve ourselves in any imperial engagement to act, in concert with other powers or otherwise, against a nation violating the treaty. In the other class would be reservations of our unimpeded freedom to defend the security of the United States.

Mr. Coolidge's Part in Campaign.

Whether such reservations are to be proposed by President Coolidge in presenting the treaty to the Senate for ratification, or whether in the Senate they are to be proposed in the Senate resolution, are questions that will continue to be discussed in December, as within the realm of possibilities.

Whether such reservations presently will be made by President Coolidge will depend upon the balloting in November.

It appears that it is not the present disposition of the Coolidge administration to propose American reservations.

Great Britain, France and other nations accepted the treaty with explicit reservations protecting their interests and the Coolidge administration accepted the reservations. There is nothing explicit on record up to date平安关于 the American rights, interests and policies, such as the Monroe Doctrine, and our policy of non-interference in trans-oceanic affairs.

Kellogg is Satisfied.

Secretary of State Kellogg had indicated the belief that American interests are sufficiently safeguarded by reservations in the terms of the treaty and he has referred to the power interpreting the agreement.

Great Britain, France and other nations have pronounced the Kellogg interpretive note of June 23 a satisfactory understanding and record of the conditions on which they agreed to renounce war as an instrument of national policy, but it is not likely that they will record these conditions more formally in reservations in the instrument of ratification.

It will be for the Senate to decide whether to accept the Kellogg view of American rights and policies are adequately safeguarded by interpretation or to frame interpretations extending the structure of mutual security we have reared in the western hemisphere.

Foreign Reservations Clear.

Great Britain and France accepted the Kellogg treaty with the condition that it be interpreted as not forbidding a signatory to go to war in self defense and as not inconsistent with the covenant of the League of Nations or the Locarno treaties, under which they may be obligated to adopt measures of war against another nation. This interpretation Mr. Kellogg embodied in his note of June 23.

The two powers also stipulated that signatory powers be released from the obligation to refrain from war against any signatory violating the agreement, the provision being incorporated in the preamble of the treaty. The reason is that the signatory countries are "assured that all changes in their relations with one another should be brought only by peaceful means and be the result of a peaceful and orderly process, and that any signatory power shall hereafter seek to promote its national interests by resort to war should be denied the benefits furnished by this treaty."

The only benefit furnished by the treaty is immunity from aggression by any signatory if the treaty is faithfully observed. To deny that benefit would be to withdraw that immunity from a nation making war in defense of compact. In this manner the declaration of the preamble is designed to release signatories from the duty in the event of its violation by any one of them.

One Violation Scraps Treaty.

France also obtained an interpretation that the obligations under the Kellogg treaty would not be inconsistent with her obligations under treaties guaranteeing the neutrality of other nations.

By these stipulations, Great Britain and France safeguard their interests and, at the same time, give full recognition to the maintenance of the peace under the treaties ending the great war and on the enforcement of these treaties through the machinery of the League of Nations and the Kellogg pact.

The Kellogg treaty would not be an instrument in maintaining the status quo of present boundary lines in Europe. If Germany, for example, Should undertake by force of arms to liberate the German Tyrol from Italian rule. France, Great Britain and Italy would be released automatically from the obligations of existing treaties and would be free to make war on Germany.

That there might be no misunderstanding about the conditions on which it accepted the treaty, the French government in its note of acceptance summarized the Kellogg interpretation thus:

"Nothing in the new treaty restrains or compromises in any way whatsoever the right of self defense. Each nation in this respect will always remain free to defend its territory against attack or invasion; alone is competent to decide whether circumstances require recourse to war in self defense."

League Covenant First.

"Secondly, none of the provisions of the new treaty is in opposition to the provisions of the covenant of the League of Nations, nor with those of the Locarno treaties or the treaties of self defense."

"Moreover, any violation of the new treaty by one of the contracting powers would automatically release the other contracting powers from their obligations to the treaty breaking state."

"Finally, the signature which the government of the United States has now offered to all the signatory powers of the treaties concluded at

U. S. Will Ask More Light on Anglo-French Naval Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—(Special)—A state department request for additional information regarding the terms of the Anglo-French naval understanding is expected to go forward to the British government shortly after the arrival of President Coolidge in Washington late this month.

Present indications are that Mr. Coolidge considers the matter of such importance that he personally will decide whether the United States will give tacit approval to the agreement or reject it as inimical to the interests of the country.

Opening of the league sessions in Geneva, where a decision is to be reached as to whether a new general disarmament conference is to be called by the end of the year, has renewed Washington interest in the understanding reached by France and England. Both state and navy department officials are inclined to believe that the agreement must be greatly modified before it will be acceptable to this government.

Both France and Great Britain have sent notes to the United States complaining of the agreement, but neither goes far enough in the opinion of the American officials. There is a desire for more details and a franker discussion of the real terms.

Locums and which it is proposed to offer to all powers parties to treaties of neutrality as well as the adherence made possible to other powers is of a nature to give the new treaty in as full measure as can practically be desired, the character of generality which accords with the views of the government of the republic.

"Thanks to the clarification given by the new preamble, and the movement of the contracting powers to the treaty, the government of the republic congratulates itself that the new convention is compatible with which France is otherwise a contracting party and the integral respect of which is necessarily imperatively imposed upon her by good faith and loyalty."

The British government accepted with an expression of satisfaction the Kellogg interpretation as a record so far as the understanding on which Great Britain agrees to sign.

But there was one British reservation not explicitly covered by the Kellogg interpretation.

That was what has become known as the "British Monroe doctrine." This reservation was presented in the note of May 19, which Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, addressed to Mr. Kellogg.

"The language of Article I as to the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy," said Sir Austen, "renders it desirable that I should remind your excellency that there are certain regions of the world the welfare and integrity of which constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety. His majesty's government has often at pains to make it clear in the past that interference with these regions cannot be suffered."

Part of "Self-Defense."

"Their protection against attack by one of the contracting powers would automatically release the other contracting powers from their obligations to the treaty breaking state."

"Finally, the signature which the government of the United States has now offered to all the signatory powers of the treaties concluded at the 13th of May relating to certain regions of which the welfare and integrity constitute a special and vital interest for our peace and safety, I need only repeat that his majesty's government in Great Britain accept the new treaty upon the understanding that it does not prejudice their freedom of action in this respect."

[The subject of American reservations will be dealt with in a second article tomorrow.]

7 More Nations Accept Kellogg Treaty Provisions

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Three-fourths of the important nations of the world who were asked to renounce war after the Kellogg-Briand pact have done so. France is listed among those who have declared their intention to do so. The governments of Egypt, Estonia, Ethiopia, Portugal, Roumania, Sweden, and Venezuela officially communicated to the state department today their intention to adhere to the treaty's provisions.

aroused interest throughout the nation because she was the first New York woman to obtain public office by a statewide vote.

Mrs. Knapp's tenure of office as secretary of state expired with the close of 1926, but at Gov. Smith's request, she remained in the capital during a few weeks of 1927 in order to assist the new secretary with the work of the department. So much done, she got away to Syracuse with her husband and many of the documents that would incriminate her.

Work is Incomplete.

Meanwhile a state official seeking special information, which he expected to find in the state census supposed to have been made by Mrs. Knapp, discovered that she had not completed the work. He was puzzled. So was the state auditor, who, calling in the documents, observed the names written into the pay rolls in the peculiar penmanship and the peculiar ink Mrs. Knapp used.

One discovery led to another. All led to the crash, and the crash culminated in accusations of misfeasance, malfeasance, forgery, perjury, and grand larceny.

But Mrs. Knapp held her head high. Gov. Smith put the whole scandal into the hands of the district attorney of Albany, contrary to investigation, and he reported to the governor that although the charges probably were well grounded, it would be impossible to obtain a conviction.

Sir Smith to Action.

Al Smith had about decided to let the matter rest there when Mrs. Knapp's lawyers and partisans made a fatal mistake. They said that the district attorney's report showed that the Knapp investigation was an Al Smith scheme. The partisans even went further. They said Smith was only trying to cover up his own mistakes and partisans.

While that brawling was in progress Allen Eddy, formerly a Chicago journalist and new editor of the Albany Knickerbocker Press, stepped into the picture. He wrote last March a two column editorial broadside reviewing the Knapp scandal.

It was so clear and cogent that it convinced Smith that action must be resumed and could successfully be resumed if he was diagnosed by the hints of the Knapp following that he was using the Knapp case for partisan coverage.

So he took the case out of the district attorney's hands, put it into the hands of the attorney general of the state, and ordered a special session of the Supreme court for the trial of the charges against Mrs. Knapp.

In the final trial on juries held out for months. The stand was preposterous that many persons remained in an offhand way. "He must be an imbecile!" They were more nearly correct than they supposed. As

Chance for Oratory! Fifty League Envoy Remain Mum

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
GENEVA, Sept. 4.—The first dumb meeting of any parliamentary organization existing in history occurred today when not a single delegate from the fifty nations represented asked the right to speak in the open session of the assembly of the League of Nations.

Communication reigns even among the secretaries of the big powers, who heretofore have always permitted the smaller to babble freely about the league's activities during the opening week, when the rush of little people's orators necessitated gagging them after fifteen minutes of talking.

Although President Harriet Ziegler twice urged gabby speakers to keep up, every one remained mute as the blue trout swimming in the lake near.

Look on Silence as Rebuke.

Critics of the league see the silence of the small power delegates as a rebuke to the big ones who have done toward disarmament, and cynics insist that it is because the delegates fervently desire to wind up the business as soon as possible and take to Paris or the watering places hereabouts.

The orators who formerly whopped things up in the assembly of the league thus far have been content to doze quietly in their chairs or promenade along the lakeside beach, where female bathers wear scant one-piece suits and where the league girl employees are forbidden to dispense their forms during the assembly session.

DRYS CLEAN UP MELROSE PARK; TWENTY JAILED

Enforcement of prohibition in Melrose Park was given additional impetus yesterday when a force of 40 agents from the office of Administrator E. C. Yellowley slipped into the suburb to administer its periodic cleanup. When the uproar had subsided and the agents had left the eighteen supposedly soft drink saloons, twenty prisoners were lodged in the jails of surrounding suburbs and innumerable barrels of beer, mixed with other liquors, had been spilled into the sewers. The evidence upon which the search warrants were based had been gathered by undercover agents during the last two months.

China spoke up, demanding a re-election of the council today, and John Bassett Moore's resignation as judge of the international court of justice at The Hague was accepted. Charles Evans Hughes' election to the place is slated for Saturday. He has been nominated by 30 nations.

Mueller Confers on Rhinehead.

While the official assembly was dumb, however, informal activities were going on with Chancellor Hans Mueller busy with pourparlers to gain support for Germany's coming demand for evacuation of the Rhine.

Chancellor Mueller has already had two conversations with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France, but he is encountering difficulties through Sir Austen Chamberlain's absence, as Lord Cushendun, acting British foreign secretary, is reluctant to interfere actively. Italy, Belgium, and the little entente are also being canvassed in the matter.

Goralski Is Re-elected Head of Polish Alliance

Walter W. Goralski, 4650 Wrightwood avenue, yesterday was reelected national president of the Polish American Military alliance at its eleventh triannual convention at Detroit, his friends were advised. The organization, which has its headquarters here at 1418 Emma street, opened its convention Sunday.

Founded 30 years ago to promote calisthenics, drills, and marches among its 5,000 members, the organization has expanded to include the Americanization of Polish immigrants and the support of citizens' military training. Goralski has held a number of offices in the organization and is well known among the Polish people of Chicago.

TWO WHO NAMED MURDER RETRACT

Mexican Police Baffled by New Turn in Case.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A mass of contradictory testimony was given by government officials tonight in the investigation of the assassination of Gen. Alvaro Obregon as a result of admissions by two principal witnesses against him, Mrs. Mother Conception, and her son, Gen. Calles.

The retractions were to the effect that Mother Conception did not aid in the plotting against the lives of Gen. Calles and Gen. Obregon, and she never furnished the poison which the two were to be killed, and also knew nothing of the bombs which were manufactured to end their lives, and did not take part in discussions in which the assassin's scheme was concocted.

The new statements covered the previous testimony of Eulogio Gonzales and Adelita Manzano, who formerly had attempted to implicate the men in their own confessed plot to poison President Calles and Obregon by pricking them with poison pins while they danced with Adelita Manzano.

Questioned in Presence of Nun.

Questioned by District Attorney in the presence of her whom he had accused they denied what had insisted on before—that Mother Conception furnished poison to their attempt, participated in their settings, and, in fact, was an active agent in their assassination intrigue.

For her discrepancy in testimony Adelita Manzano had an explanation: "I was so nervous that day I did not know what I said."

For his discrepancy, Gonzales offered only the statement that whatever Mother Conception said was true. A third man, Jorge Gallardo Pavon, joined their retractions, all of which came when an old Mexican customs of "Cavadas" or facing persons accused of crime with another to repeat accusations affecting each other in their presence.

Genales Retracts Story.

District Attorney Nieto brought Genales into the room of investigation. He began the investigation, although Conception: "Gonzales has previously testified you provided over meetings at your house at which it was plotted to kill President Calles and Obregon, and that Mother Obregon and that you furnished the poison for the attempts. Is this true?"

Mother Conception replied, "It is definitely untrue."

She turned to Gonzales: "Do you think it is true?"

Gonzales answered: "Well, I say that the truth is—"he hesitated—"whatever Mother Conception says is the truth."

Mrs. Elena Manzano was then brought into the room, and Mother Conception was allowed to ask her, "Is it true that I directed the meetings at which it was plotted to kill President Calles and Obregon, and that Mother Obregon and that you furnished the poison for the attempts. Is this true?"

The girl replied, "No, it is not true, because Diaz de Solano gave me the poison. You did not even know I was going to Celaya."

And then she explained, "When I said that before I was very nervous and did not know what I said."

STATE LEADERS OF G. O. P. RALLY AT PEP MEETING

Voice Optimism, but Admit Fight Will Be Hard.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Optimism marked the Republican state organization rally at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

No leader, big or little, was willing to admit publicly that he had any doubts about being able to deliver his territory, but even allowing for his pride yesterday's showing of organization strength was an impressive demonstration.

With all but three of the state nominees present, the 300 or more leaders that sat down at the luncheon in the Red room represented the organized Republican vote of the state from Waukegan to Cairo in a manner that brought good cheer to everybody.

And, save for a tiny note of discouragement here and there, the reports of the congressional district leaders were highly enthusiastic concerning the November outlook.

Good Voices Sentiment.

James W. Good, western manager of the Hoover campaign, voiced the optimistic sentiment when, early in the program, he was called on by State Chairman Ferry B. McCullough.

"If any one has had any doubt about Illinois, we'll go this fall," he said. "It would be disastrous at once if the doubt faced this crowd of workers."

"We're not going to be swept off our feet by false issues this year. Whether the country is going to continue to enjoy the prosperity with which it has been blessed in recent years is the real issue of the campaign, and nothing can change it."

"What I have seen here today has convinced me of what we must do to win the election," he said.

"We're going to have a fight in Illinois, but the Republican party never was better prepared for it than it is now, and it is getting better and better prepared for it every day."

Says Fees Are Confused.

"Our opponents are becoming badly confused. In the east they are against the equalization fee, and in the west they are for it. They are wet in New York and dry in Texas. And we see something that we have never seen before—the vice presidential nominee will be chosen before the election.

The Comptroller used "certain methods in ignoring requests for concrete payment in Komeny avenue, between Sixty-third and Sixty-seventh streets was answered by Feherty with the statement that the majority of the property owners favored asphalt.

U. S. STATE CO-OPERATION URGED FOR FLOOD CONTROL

Cooperation between the federal government and the state of Illinois was advocated yesterday by Congressman William E. Hull. Feherty set aside adequate flood control in the Illinois river valley. Mr. Hull said if the government is willing to supply two-thirds of the cost of flood control the state should be willing to appropriate the other third in place of the farmers who have already been bled too much." The Illinois Valley flood commission will hold a hearing today in Peoria and in Beardstown tomorrow.

There were echoes of this belief, although on a smaller scale, from state commissioners, county chairmen, members of the legislature, members of congress and others. David E. Shanahan of the state headquarters spoke of the meeting as the "bone of the Democratic state central committee meets at Springfield this afternoon to select a successor to the late George E. Brennan as national committee man. A last minute suggestion that this action be deferred until after the election was said to have been made, but it is expected that State Chairman Thomas F. Donovan will be elected to the vacancy despite predictions of dissatisfaction and threats of retaliation against the state ticket in Cook county if he is chosen.

WHO HAS CITY CAR FUND? AMOUNT? HERE'S ANSWER

It's Handled as Part of Treasury Surplus.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A renewal of the discussion of local transportation has prompted several persons to ask THE TRIBUNE: "How much is there in the city's street car fund? Where is it? Is it available? How much of it is cash? Who has it?"

The answers to most of those questions involve an explanation of one phase of city financing. When George K. Schmidt became the new city controller last Saturday the city treasury had on hand $109,015,280.04. Of this total $62,681,123.45 was in cash and $46,334,246.59 in certificates.

Of the cash in the city treasury $62,681,123.45 belongs in the city's car fund. This fund has been accumulating over a period of 21 years by the payment to the city of 5% per cent of the Surface Lines' net receipts and by the addition of interest. The car fund is partly in cash and partly in securities.

Money Landed to City.

Under an act of the legislature the city can lend itself its surplus funds. Instead of keeping the car fund separate, all of the city's surplus funds are thrown into one pot. The city borrows from that aggregate fund and credits each other with amounts in proportion to its size.

The surplus money invested at present totals $46,334,246.59. Of that amount $32,758,000 is invested in tax anticipation warrants. These are a first lien on the taxes received the following year. For the use of surplus funds for the operating expenses of the city the city pays 2 and 2/3 per cent interest. Those are the rates which the banks pay the city for the $62,681,123.45 in cash deposited with them.

The surplus money invested in the city's 4 per cent bonds is $160,300. In interim certificates for city bonds the investment totals $5,991,800. In United States Liberty loan bonds of 4% per cent the investment is $7,300,000. The remaining $132,140.69 is invested in special assessment warrants.

How Cash Can Be gotten.

The part of the city's $62,681,123.45 cash fund which is invested in tax warrants will be available in cash as soon as the warrants are paid off, which will be with the receipt of the taxes next year. The part in the city bonds will be on hand in cash when the bonds become due; but the cash can be made available at any time by the sale of the bonds to the public. The amount in bonds, however, totals only $160,300.

The money invested in interim certificates for city bonds will be available when the bonds are sold. That will be a time when the city controller thinks the market is good. Part of the investment in Liberty bonds is payable Sept. 15 and if it were deemed advisable to cash all of the Liberty bonds it is claimed that they could be sold without loss to the city.

There are several methods of reckoning the interest to be paid and it is probable that the council local transportation will soon ask the city controller for a detailed statement of the present method utilized. The interim earnings of the car fund are published annually in the city controller's report.

Passenger, Suddenly Ill, Dies on Clark Street Car.

Taken suddenly ill yesterday while riding on a northbound Clark street car, Robert Lange, 45 years old, a machinist living at 1455 Farragut avenue, died as he was assisted to the ground at Wisconsin avenue by the conductor and several passengers. An inquest will be held today at 3335 North Clark street.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY WILL BRING EQUALITY, SAYS ALTON PRESIDENT

Only through the Democratic party can the people receive an equal opportunity and a fair and wholesome prosperity, with a sound and businesslike administration, honestly and fairly conducted, W. G. Bierd, president of the Chicago and Alton railroad, declared yesterday. Mr. Bierd was recently named financial director of the Smith campaign in Illinois.

"Of the two parties," he said, "the Democratic party is the direct champion of the people, and the Democratic party has no class or advocate to special privilege." The administration of the last eight years has proven itself incapable of—or has failed to discern the necessity for—a clean and sound government.

I believe no two truer and abler men could be found in this country than Alfred E. Smith and Joseph T. Robinson for the offices they seek. No man in our country has a clearer, higher record than the governor of the state of New York.

President Bierd said that the farmers must look for fair treatment from the Democrats, and that the hope of a solution of the prohibition problem lies in their party.

LOESCH PROBES PAY ROLLS OF CORONER WOLFF

Venire Drawn for New Special Grand Jury.

Pay rolls of the coroner's office and several other county departments have been in the possession of the prosecuting staff of Special Assistant Attorney General Frank J. Loesch for several months. It became known yesterday that the county pay rolls were obtained by David Stansbury, first assistant to Mr. Loesch, at the time he was investigating the issuance of courtesy stars from the coroner's office to henchmen of Martin Eliot, boss of the 26th ward.

The pay rolls turned over to the grand juries included also those of State's Attorney Robert E. Crammer. It is understood, however, that the prosecutors are interested, particularly in the names of employees appearing on Coroner Oscar Wolff's staff.

New Venire Is Drawn.
The venire for the September grand jury, which will hear the pay roll evidence, was drawn yesterday by the jury summoned. From the 100 men summoned yesterday the jury of 23 men will be picked next Monday by Chief Justice John J. Sullivan.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber was busy yesterday preparing to commit the motions to be made by the Illinois attorney the morning before Justice John M. O'Connor, asking that the 22 page general conspiracy indictment be quashed. Raber said that he is confident the indictment will stand up under any attack.

In a speech made before the Rotary club yesterday Prosecutor Loesch commented on the recent grand jury report, which stated that the police department is "rotten to the core." He said that more policemen are needed.

Seeks Better Men.
"But the new policemen should be of better quality than those we now have, in education, honesty, and ability," he said. "It is not fair to charge that the whole police force is rotten, but the police in the past have often been under orders of some pretty politicians, not under the orders of their commissioners."

The new commissioner, William F. Russell, is honest and capable and is anxious to help our investigation but the commissioners have a number of other him who are crooked and we never can tell when our work will be double crossed by some of these crooks in the department."

The regular September grand jury was impaneled yesterday by Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the criminal court. James H. Ferry, 2240 Estates Avenue, was appointed foreman of the new jury.

Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber announced that he expected the new jury to take up within a few days the shooting of Merle Adams by members of Hardboiled George Goldings' social prohibition raiders during a raid in the City Hall square building. Agents Arthur R. Franklin and Edward Gill were ordered held by Judge Frank Padden for grand jury action.

Plan to Extend Support.
Still sitting at the wheel of his automobile, Manford Burns, 51 years old, 7624 Cornell avenue, was found dead yesterday by his wife who had worried over his absence. Burns had gone to the garage to make some repairs to his motor car. Police said he was overcome by carbon monoxide poisoning from the exhaust.

SMITH'S RELIGION TRULY AMERICAN, ROBINSON SAYS

Cisco, Tex., Sept. 4.—(Special)—A declaration that Gov. Alfred E. Smith's religious creed is as soundly American as that of any Baptist or Methodist and that the governor stands for absolute separation of church and state, was stressed by Senator Joseph J. Robinson, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee, in his second campaign speech here tonight.

"Gov. Smith's religious creed, as applied to government is as soundly American as any Methodist or Baptist ever professed," Robinson declared.

"It comprehends freedom of conscience for all men; equality of all churches and sects before the law as a matter of right and not as a matter of mere favor; the absolute separation of church and state and strict enforcement of the constitutional provision that congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

"Those ministers who are dividing their congregations by political attacks on him from their pulpits should be reminded that Gov. Smith's cabinet is composed of nine protestants, two Catholics and one Jew, and that substantially the same proportion runs throughout his official appointments."

TREASURY ISN'T SANTA CLAUS, U.S. SETTLERS TOLD

Cramton Disgusted with Irrigation Results.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

Billings, Mont., Sept. 4.—[Special.] Settlers on reclamation projects have been given too long a period in which to make payments to the federal government, Representative Louis G. Cramton [Rep., Mich.] asserted today, commenting on the situation disclosed during Secretary of the Interior Roy O. West's inspection tour of the last week. Furthermore, Mr. Cramton said, congress made a mistake in setting up a system whereby the settlers are under no obligation to pay interest on deferred payments.

Representative Cramton, who is chairman of the house appropriations committee, which is in charge of the annual interior department supply bills, elaborated on criticisms which he expressed at a dinner given by citizens of Great Falls, Mont., last night in honor of Secretary West.

Fund's Purpose Failed.

"The reclamation fund was intended for use in the development of the west and it was originally intended to revolve every ten years," said Mr. Cramton. "Then it was changed to twenty years and then to forty. Occasionally they have had to extend it even to 50 years, because of the average gross crop returns under which settlers do not expect to pay back the money borrowed for construction of irrigation works in less than 50 or 75 years and in some cases 100 to 140 years. This means that this fund, that is supposed to revolve, is frozen and not available for as wide use as was intended. It is in the interest of the west that the fund be administered in a businesslike way and not as a Christmas tree."

"All of this money has been loaned without interest. This should never have been done. The system has encouraged the asking of extensions until they have become a habit. I hope congress has stopped passing bills approving extensions of payments."

Representative Cramton said that on many of the reclamation projects there has been an inefficient use of lands.

Dr. Mead Agrees.

Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, who also is accompanying Secretary West, agreed with Mr. Cramton as to the question of interest on deferred payments by settlers. He asserted that he would recommend approval of no more extensions of payments.

"It would have been better if the government had made an automatic deduction of a portion of the cost of irrigation works instead of relining settlers of the payment of interest," said Dr. Mead. "The present system has been a mischievous thing."

Secretary West and his party arrived late today at Billings and tonight attended a dinner given by the irrigation district boards of the Huntley reclamation project, a dozen miles distant. The Huntley project, which is a relatively small one, has cost the government about $3,000,000 of which about $200,000 has been expended as loans. The project is fairly well settled and the settlers this year took over its operation.

In yesterday's tour of the Sun river project near Great Falls, Secretary West was particularly interested in the Gibson dam which is under construction. It gave some idea of the immensity of the proposed Boulder dam on the Colorado river. The Gibson dam, which is now nearly completed, is a huge affair costing $2,000,000 but it is to be less than half as high as the proposed Boulder dam and the capacity of the reservoir cre-

PAGEANT OF ANCIENT GERMANY STAGED FOR GEN. VON HINDENBURG

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 4.—[AP]—The picturesque days of the master-singer were depicted today for the eyes of President von Hindenburgh by Munich's citizenry in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the new Germanic museum here. The depiction was in the form of an historical pageant, which visibly touched the octogenarian soldier-president.

Von Hindenburgh had taken his place alongside the Bavarian premier Held, Reichstag President Loeb, and other high dignitaries, a colorful procession of Munich folk of today as their ancestors once appeared, led by Singing children, students, in costumes, brewers, confectioners, butchers, masons, bakers, wine-growers' daughters from the palatinate in many colored dresses, who waited before the president and offered him sips of native wine from golden goblets.

The climax of the parade came with the building guilds who bore under a golden canopy the wrought iron casket containing the documents to be placed in the cornerstone of the Germanic museum.

stated by it will be only about one-hundredth of that at Boulder.

The Gibson dam is to be 205 feet high, 900 feet long across the top, 87 feet wide at the base, 120 feet high and 15 feet wide at the top. Something like 160,000 cubic yards of concrete will go into the structure of the dam, which fits into solid rock at the two sides of the canyon through which the Sun river flows down the slope of the Rocky mountains. The reservoir, already carved out by nature in the mountains, will extend for seven or eight miles back of the dam. At present the Sun river is only a small stream,

3 MEN HOLD UP WABASH AVENUE FIRM; GET $8,500

Posing as a cigar salesman, the leader of three bandits yesterday entered the offices of Richards & Haasen, concessionaires at 806 South Wabash avenue, and kicked the door twice as a signal. His companions then rushed in with drawn revolvers and, after trussing up four men, escaped with $8,500. Inasmuch as the offices are in the same building as the Congress Trust and Savings bank, it was at first believed by police that the bank had been held up.

John Creighton, ticket agent for the North Western railroad at the Davis street station in Evanston, was suddenly confronted by an armed man appearing at each of the two windows in his office. Threatened from both sides, Creighton was forced to give $400 to the bandits. The contents of the safe were kept intact when Creighton told the men he did not know the combination.

If granted, the increase would be the second within a year and would bring the total advance in rates to approximately thirty-five per cent.

Aims and Ideals of a Great Service

THE ideal and aim of the Bell Telephone System is a telephone service for the nation, enabling at all times, any one, anywhere to pick up a telephone and talk to any one else clearly, quickly and at a reasonable cost.

This statement, quoted from a recent address by Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, defines the policy of the Bell System, of which the Illinois Bell Telephone Company is a part.

In pursuit of this objective there has been established a great, nation-wide network of communication built and extended in the spirit of service to the public and without undue profits to any one. In this spirit we are constantly setting higher standards of service and striving to reach them.

The Bell System accepts its responsibility as a public trust. Its duty is to provide the American public with adequate, dependable and satisfactory telephone service at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety.

HOOVER DECIDES ON CAMPAIGN TO CAPTURE SOUTH

Will Speak in New York on Oct. 17.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—[Special.]—The unprecedented political situation in the dry southern states and the reports from the boundary states which have wave after wave of elections have led Herbert Hoover to decide on a visit southward about Oct. 1.

This will be either North Carolina or Tennessee. As the Republican candidate has limited himself to four major addresses during the campaign in this section, this decision is significant of the fact that the solid south will be visited at last by the party of Lincoln and Grant.

Mr. Hoover's labor speech, which will be delivered in Newark, N. J., has been changed today from Sept. 15 to 17. On Oct. 17 the candidate will speak in Carnegie hall, New York City. A trip to New England is being held in reserve. The prospect of a general appearance in Chicago seems to be fading.

Half Hour Radio Hookups.

The national committee has arranged half hour radio hookups on the 45 nights of the campaign, with stations broadcasting from different parts of the country.

Senator William E. Borah had a long conference on campaign issues with Mr. Hoover today. Senator Borah is to start in Detroit this month on a speaking tour. He is making his own itinerary.

The G. O. P. managers think they have a chance to break into such southern states as Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi in addition to the chances in Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, and Oklahoma. Republican managers in Alabama and Georgia have commented to the withdrawal of Republican electors from the ticket and the substitution of the names of Democratic electors.

Democrats on G. O. P. Ticket.

In Florida an agreement has been made whereby half the Republican electors on the ticket will be Republicans and the other half Democrats. assurances have been given that if the Democrats running as electors on the Republican tickets in Alabama and Georgia and Florida receive more votes than the electors running on the ticket headed by Gov. Smith and Senator Robinson, they will vote for Herbert Hoover and Senator Charles Curtis.

Mississippi in Revolt.

Mississippi is showing such a lean toward the Republicans that Pat Harrison, of that state, one of the wheel horses in the Democratic national organization, is showing concern not only for Gov. Smith but his own political scalp. Such men as Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo, Democrat are reported as having a hard drive for that state.

WESTERN RAIL WORKERS CONFER ON PEACE PLAN

Conferences started yesterday to determine what policy will be adopted by the conductors and trainmen of 35 western railroads who are seeking higher wages and better working conditions. The meetings are being held at the Great Northern hotel, the members of the Association of General Committees, including representatives of all the lines affected, taking part.

E. F. Curtis, head of the conductors' organization, and A. P. Whitney, of the trainmen's, called the conferences immediately after a counting of ballots revealed that an overwhelming majority of the 70,000 men affected voted to leave the whole matter of settlement in the hands of the union leaders. Authority voted the union chiefs extends even to the eventual calling of a strike, if they consider this proper.

A peace plan worked out at Washington last week between representatives of the union, the roads and of the federal board of mediation, the details of which have not been revealed, has been presented before the committees, and the series of meetings is for the purpose of accepting or rejecting this plan. As soon as a decision is reached, Curtis and Whitney will notify J. W. Higgins, head of the road's committee. This action may not be reached until early next week, it was indicated by union officials last night.

leaning toward the Hoover-Curtis ticket. Billbo was rabidly anti-Smith at Houston, but the Democrats say he is coming into line. But he is threatening to run against Pat Harrison when he comes up for re-election to the senate two years hence.

Senator F. M. Simmons, the Democratic boss of North Carolina for the last 30 years, has endorsed Hoover. That state is considered Republican at the present time.

Virginia is another of the old rock-ribbed Democratic states that has been shaken to its foundation. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia was the leader of the rabid dry anti-Smith Democrats at the Houston convention, and although he is supporting the Democratic nominee, he states publicly that he has not changed his views on the subject of prohibition in any respect.

As to the border states the outlook is even more hopeful from a Republican standpoint. Most of the Democrats are willing to concede now that Oklahoma is gone. Warren G. Harding carried that state in 1920. This year the presence of Mr. Curtis on the ticket is influencing many Democrats. Curtis helped to get through Oklahoma's statehood bill and his influence has been strong with those people. He had several delegates from Oklahoma in the national convention who supported him for the presidential nomination.

Harding also carried Tennessee. That is one of the driest states in the south. Kentucky went for James M. Cox, the Democratic nominee of 1920, by fewer than 5,000 votes. Missouri's Democratic party is badly torn as a result of the primary battle there in which Senator Tom A. Hart managed to obtain the nomination of a wet predecessor on the Democratic ticket, but failed. The Republicans are making a hard drive for that state.

THE WIRE TAPPING DECISION.

One clear duty of the next congress will be to enact a law declaring evidence procured by unlawful means inadmissible in a federal prosecution.

The Supreme court, in the case of the United States vs. Olmstead et al., by a decision of five members of the court, four judges dissenting, has held that the admission against defendants in a prosecution for felony of evidence procured by tapping telephone wires is not a violation of the fourth and fifth amendments of the constitution.

The fourth amendment, our readers of course know, declares their right "to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated." The fifth amendment, with which our readers are equally familiar, declares that "no person . . . shall be compelled in any criminal case, to be a witness against himself."

Chief Justice Taft, in the opinion concurred in by the majority of the court, holds that the fourth amendment has not been violated "unless there has been an official search and seizure of his tangible material effects or an actual physical invasion of his house or 'cavilage' for the purpose of making a seizure." He thinks the reasonable view is that one who installs in his house a telephone instrument with connecting wires intends to project his voice to those quite outside, and that the wires beyond his house and messages while passing over them are not within the protection of the fourth amendment.

Justice Brandeis, dissenting, considered this interpretation too literal and defective of the true intent of the guaranty against search and seizure as applied to present conditions of life. On this point Mr. Justice Butler, also dissenting, says:

"Telephones are used generally for transmission of messages concerning official, social, business, and personal affairs, including communications that are private and privileged—those between physician and patient, lawyer and client, parent and child, husband and wife. The contracts between telephone companies and users contemplate the private use of the facilities employed in the service. The communications belong to the parties between whom they pass. During their transmission the exclusive use of the wire belongs to the persons served by it. Wire-tapping involves interference with the wire while being used. Tapping the wires and listening in by the officers literally constituted a search for evidence. As the communications passed they were heard and taken down."

But both Justice Brandeis and Justice Holmes also based their dissent on the doctrine that evidence obtained by breaking the law should not be admissible against persons charged with breaking the law. Wire-tapping is a felony in the law of Washington, and the agents who procured the evidence in this case had committed a felony to procure it. Justice Holmes said of this phase of the case:

"Decency, security, and liberty alike demand that government officials shall be subjected to the same rules of conduct that are commands to the citizen. In a government of laws existence of the government will be imperiled if it fails to observe the law scrupulously. Our government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. For good or for ill it教会s the whole people by its example. Crime is contagious. If the government becomes a law breaker it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy. To declare that in the administration of the criminal law the end justifies the means—to declare that the government may commit crimes in order to secure the conviction of a private criminal—would bring terrible retribution. Against that pernicious doctrine this court should resolutely set its face."

The views expressed in the majority opinion in this case seem to us to illustrate strikingly a deplorable tendency in certain judicial decisions to violate the spirit of constitutional guarantees in favor of statutory acts supposed to be in furtherance of some reform and supported by supposed public opinion. By a process of progressive infringement upon private liberty in the name of some alleged immediate reform and with the purpose of making the federal government an agency for the discipline of private conscience contrary to the essential ideals and principles of the American system of constitutional freedom, the bill of rights is being gradually whittled away. With the assistance of the courts which were created to be the unyielding bulwarks of constitutional liberty, we are losing our heritage in exchange for experiments in political discipline, urged as moral reforms unchallengeable in principle and expediency, though dubious in both.

Relief from the immediate consequences of the decision in the Olmstead case, at least, may be had, as the chief justice intimates, by recourse to congress, which "may protect the secrecy of telephone messages by making them, when intercepted, inadmissible in evidence in federal criminal trials." But congress should not deal with the implications of the chief justice's opinion so gingerly. It should lose no time in declaring that no evidence obtained by the unlawful acts of government agents shall be admissible in any pros-cution by the federal government. The law of a free people should not countenance a duel in law breaking between agents of their government and offenders against it.

AIRPLANES AND TIME TABLES.

The important cities compassed by a night's Pullman journey from Chicago are rapidly being brought into almost suburban range with the development of regular passenger air service. An entirely new conception of distance, and with it a more intimate relationship of localities in the Chicago area, is arising. Establishment of air schedules brings a full realization of the strategic position—evidenced by rail experience—which Chicago occupies.

Milwaukee, Peoria, and points to which a railroad trip involved substantial interruption of a day's routine can be reached by air with inconsequential loss of time. St. Louis, Detroit, and cities at an overnight railroad distance, including a midnight start and an uncomfortably early arrival, are within an afternoon's air distance from Chicago.

The air makes its own converts. It is a universal experience that persons become air enthusiasts once they are induced to make their maiden trip. It requires opportune arguments, however, to get the ordinary landlubber to expose himself to the convenience and comfort of the air.

The timidity of habitual travelers to this mode of transport should be overcome by the expansion of systematic air passenger service over established rail routes. Reliable and secure operation of passenger planes over the coterminous rail trip which the traveler is accustomed to make should bring him to the point of at least taking an experimental air voyage. Then he may be considered a regular customer.

The conquering of the Atlantic or the Pacific, the establishment of new altitude and speed records, stunt flying, and other spectacular aeronautical feats aid in the development of aviation, but they do not gain the substantial support of a large class of potential passengers. Regular passenger service reduces the sense of adventure in flying, but it demonstrates everyday applicability.

CONFISCATION THROUGH RECLAMATION.

Secretary of the Interior West is solicited by settlers on the lower Yellowstone project for loans with which houses may be constructed and permanent improvements effected. They argue that the government's reclamation venture will fall unless residents are lured there by the prospect of further government handouts.

Representative Cramton, who is a member of the West party, advises the secretary against such generosity. He says that the settlers have already been extended liberal privileges, and that the easy terms of the contracts, together with the irrigation works built by the government, have enabled speculators to run up the price of land.

The government should decline to give further assistance to the settlers. If the project cannot maintain itself without costly patching with greenbacks, the government should shoulder the loss with a determination not to enter into further reclamation ventures for years to come.

The farm lands of the country already produce a surplus of crops. Self-productive farms, abandoned by their owners as unprofitable of operation, harvest weeds. Reclamation leads only to production of more foodstuffs, surfeiting the already oversupplied market with produce competitive to established agriculture.

Until the farmer gains his economic footing the expenditure of government revenue for the creation of new farm lands is tantamount to confiscation.

THE TOWN THAT MISSED THE RAILWAY.

Al Smith said that, as governor of New York, he was for the lakes, to the sea waterway by the all-American route. That ignores the St. Lawrence river and goes across New York. Smith said that if he were President he would re-study the question with an open mind. As a New Yorker he wants the New York route.

Many Americans sentimentally incline toward a wholly national project in opening the lakes to the sea. It may be faulty in engineering and financing, but it has a sentimental hold. It lies entirely within American decision to accomplish. The St. Lawrence waterway requires the decision of the Canadians and their cooperation. Canada is influenced now by factors which block this co-operation. The dominion is compromising its future seriously.

The demand from inland America, both in the United States and in Canada, for real access to the sea is growing. It cannot be forever blocked by Canadian interests. It will turn the United States to its own project. However expensive this may be, it will at last prevail if it becomes apparent to Americans that the joint undertaking with Canada is hopeless.

Canadians should consider the plight of the town which missed the railway.

Editorial of the Day

THE ADVENTURERS.

[Sloven City (Ia.) Journal.]

Why do men like Hassell and Cramer seek to fly to Europe by a new route, knowing well the perils of the undertaking? What impelled Nobile to make his second journey to the north pole? What is the impulse that is sending Byrd to the antarctic for the purpose of flying over the south pole? What is it that sends men out to the remote and inaccessible places of earth, daring all of the hazards and enduring all of the hardships involved?

The questions are easily answered. All of these men, and countless others like them, are impelled by the spirit of adventure, that spirit that has armed men and sent them forth conquering since time immemorial. Fame they seek, it may be, but that is merely incidental; the chief objective is the adventure; the adventure for the adventurer's sake. Few there be who do not have within them this desire for adventure. Some men gratify the desire one way, others in other ways. Some make an adventure of their labor, whatever it may be, and others climb mountain peaks or travel in strange lands. But there are only a few choice spirits who have the equipment for high and heroic adventure and who dare to aspire to it.

There are people, any number of them, who scoff at such undertakings as transoceanic flights, or antarctic exploration, or the conquest of peaks like Mount Everest, and ask, What is the use? But they are greatly in error, for in such undertakings men refresh their spirits and preserve for the human race those high qualities of vision, determination, courage, sacrifice and fortitude that are so essential.

The thirst for adventure that remains such a dominant quality, surviving all the refinements of civilization, is proof of the vigor of the race. While it endures we will have no reason to fear the decay of humanity.

MARATHON DANCES AND HEALTH.

DANCING eleven days in a Marathon contest causes no organic injury, according to Dr. Max Thorek. After a recent Marathon dancing competition, Dr. Thorek made thorough examinations of the four winners, two men and two women. All were found organically sound. The hearts were not enlarged and showed no evidence of strain. The urine examination did not indicate any disorder of the kidneys. The blood pressures, both systolic and diastolic, were below what is commonly regarded as normal.

One woman winner, 21 years of age, had a blood pressure that registered lower than 100 at every tenth excursion. The only winner who had a systolic pressure over 120 was a man 27 years of age, and his average was 122. The blood sugar percentage was low. One of the winners was a man 27 years of age who had had his thyroid removed eight years before. Just prior to this Marathon he had walked 2,500 miles, dropping out of that match because of a strained ligament in his ankle.

The air makes its own converts. It is a universal experience that persons become air enthusiasts once they are induced to make their maiden trip. It requires opportune arguments,

LOST RÁDIO SONG.

You sent the song you cherished
Down the far dream ways alone:

All of your hopes in a melody,
All of your dreams in a tone.

Your song was carried westward,
Winds of the desert knew.

A place where a song would tarry,
A place where a dream comes true.

Songs lose their way, they wander;
Your song was lost until

It found a silver sentinel
Beside a silver hill.

I heard your song, I wondered
How it could bring so far,

So many dreams and longings
Without a guiding star.

I keep your song in sunlight,
All of its splendor has made

Its way into a pattern of
A dream that cannot fade.

SWEDEN'S ANGER AT BOILING POINT AS REDS MEDDLE

Soviet Government Told to "Cease Impudence."

BY MARTIN MARTELIUS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
STOCKHOLM, Sept. 4.—Red naval activities in the Baltic are arousing considerable comment and resentment in Sweden.

During the recent naval maneuvers of the Swedish fleet, the Red flotilla, consisting of five dreadnaughts and seven destroyers, suddenly appeared amongst the Swedish ships in Hano bay, off Karlskrona, Sweden's naval port. The demonstration is regarded as a typical instance of soviet impudence.

Ship Spreads Propaganda.

Yesterday during the Swedish general election another incident occurred, resulting in fierce indignation in the Swedish newspapers. The soviet training ship Leningrad-Soviet, its sides plastered with large propaganda slogans written in the Swedish language, arrived at Visby, the chief port of Gotland. Some of the posters were:

"Friendly greetings to the Swedish workers and peasants."

"May the proletarians of all countries unite."

Groups of the crew landed at Visby and distributed propagandist leaflets among the natives, exhorting them to "overthrow capitalistic rule."

Foreign Minister Protests.

The Swedish foreign minister immediately protested against "the impudent meddling in the interior politics of Sweden." It is reported that the Russian minister has apologized and ordered the training ship immediately to return to Russia.

Coincidentally, messages from Helsinki, Finland, report that Russian naval maneuvers are taking place in Finnish waters near Kronstadt, and ten destroyers and two cruisers are engaging in a mimic battle and landing forces on the Finnish shore. The Red fleet threw out fog screens, while seven airplanes flew overhead.

Spirits of Wales Reds Broken.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] SWANSEA, Wales, Sept. 4.—Pathetic stragglers of the Red army of unemployed miners who marched here from South Wales continued to arrive today for the second day of the trade union congress, but their spirit was broken following the failure of yesterday's demonstration. Trade union congress officials are rejoicing, seeing an indication of waning communist strength.

The police guard, as well as the Red flag and communist music, was missing today and the gathering was able to settle down to the business of recording a protest against the unem-

OLD TAMMANY HALL GIVES UP CAREFULLY LAID TWEED GHOST

New York, Sept. 4.—[Special.]—Old Tammany hall gave up its most carefully laid ghost—that of "Boss" Tweed—today.

When the boss—iron handed ruler of Tammany officiated at the laying of the cornerstone of the Wigwam in Forty-ninth street July 4, 1867, he placed there a little leaden box, 11½x9¾ inches in size.

John C. Vornon, patriarch of Tammany—was a boy then, and he remembered the occasion. During the sixty-one years since, however, almost every one else who took part in the ceremony has died.

When the wreckers started tearing down the Wigwam they were instructed to keep a lookout for the box. Today a steam shovel, pulling away the last of the big concrete blocks of the old Wigwam's foundations, unearthed the small casket.

Willie Holly, secretary of the Tammany organization, hurried down Eleventh street to open the box.

About a hundred articles—yellow papers, letters, old coins, pictures, calling cards and even a strange document written in Chinese, saw the light.

Among the pictures was an autographed daguerrotype of the great boss himself—the bold signature, "William M. Tweed," scrawled across its face. Another was a little photograph of John T. Hoffman, mayor of New York and grand sachem of Tammany when the cornerstone was laid.

Employed insurance act demanding that the state increase contributions.

An amusing attempt to dispose of a white elephant was seen in the railwaymen's and South Wales miners' offer of the Latin college in London as a gift to the country, with the sole proviso that the "general council undertake Marxian teaching in economics and historical science, and the Marxian system be thus safeguarded." The trade union congress refused.

HOOVER COUNTS ON CALIFORNIA; SO DID HUGHES

Democrats Hope for Repetition of 1916.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 4.—(Special)—California is fighting ground between Herbert Hoover and Al Smith. Republican leaders say the state will be safe for Hoover in November but it will require real battling. Democratic chiefs say Smith has a fighting chance to carry the state although its normal Republican cast makes the odds favor Hoover. The Democrats assure the situation resembles 1916, when California surprised the nation and gave Wilson its thirteen electoral votes, deciding the presidency.

Prohibition is the outstanding issue in the great grape state, which has adjusted itself to Volsteadism by drinking wine and beer while it votes dry and has one of the most stringent enforcement laws in the land.

North and South Opposed.

The state is split north and south. Southern California, south of the Tehachapi range, is conservative, dry and Republican. Here Hoover's greatest strength. The Los Angeles region is a cross-section of Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and other mid-west Republican strongholds. Migration from those states to the golden west has built up the Republican vote.

Southern California two years ago cast the vote that kept the state dry—politically—when the proposal to repeal the state enforcement act was voted down. Likewise it is the region most interested in Boulder dam. Hoover is conceded a big lead in southern California by most politicians, although Smith also has much support in the cities.

Northern California Insurgent.

Northern California is wet, liberal and highly independent. Here is where Smith has his greatest following. It is the old stamping ground of Bull Moose. It was strong for Roosevelt in 1912, when the Moose carried the state by less than two hundred votes. Wilson got two electors and Roosevelt eleven. It cast a big vote for La Follette four years ago. Two years ago it voted wet on the proposal to abolish the state enforcement act, although the state as a whole voted dry by 54,000. It was the belated vote from remote counties in northern California that swung the state to Wilson in 1916 after Hughes had gone to bed thinking he was elected.

Roughly, about one-third of California's vote is in the Los Angeles area, one-third is around San Francisco bay and the other third is spread over the state from the Oregon line to the Mexican border.

Approximately a million and a third

Republicans are registered and half a million Democrats, while a hundred thousand are listed as "declined to state party." Registration, however, does not indicate as much as might appear, for the state has had much exercise in forgetting party circles.

Started Moon Bolt.

It began the real father of the fight in Chicago in 1912 that led to the formation of the Progressive party, with Hiram Johnson as Roosevelt's running mate. Back in those days Hiram was advocating the abolition of party designations on the ballot.

San Francisco is a real battleground. Smith is exhibiting great strength. Four years ago La Follette came within 5,000 of carrying San Francisco over Coolidge. La Follette did carry Sacramento and almost got Fresno, the big grape county. In those regions Smith has a large outspoken following.

Hoover is regarded as a "native son" by Volstead leaders, and is supported by Senator Thomas Walsh and James Reed in the semi-national primaries are all out for Smith, in full harmony. They insist it sounds like 1916 to an attuned Democratic ear.

Both Republicans and Democrats have united organizations this time, but as a vote delivering machine the Republicans are in superior position. Senator Hiram Johnson is for Hoover and the San Francisco papers are all for him.

One Curious Lineup.

The three papers of G. K. McClatchy in Sacramento, Fresno, and Modesto are militantly for Al Smith. Mr. McClatchy last time was for La Follette. This year he is supporting Al Smith and, curiously enough, Hiram Johnson.

In San Francisco the Republicans lean heavily on the fact that the local Fin machine is going the route of La Follette. Captain Tom Flynn, the former sheriff of San Francisco, known as the "stable boy political boss," saved the city from La Follette four years ago. In the election last Tuesday Flynn managed to retain his control of the county committee against the opposition of Mayor James Ralph Jr.

The Democrats say this time the Fin men, the Volstead leaders, are supporting Senator Thomas Walsh and James Reed in the semi-national primaries are all out for Smith, in full harmony. They insist it sounds like 1916 to an attuned Democratic ear.

BANDITS ROB CLOTHIER.
William Haas, owner of a clothing store at 1228 South Halsted street, yielded yesterday to three armed robbers.

MARRIED COUPLE IN PARKED CAR TO BE ARRAIGNED

A man and his wife, arrested Monday night as they sat in their parked automobile at Lemoyne street and Monroe avenue, River Forest, will be arraigned today on charges of disorderly conduct before Magistrate George A. Rosenman of Oak Park, and are said to be direct contradictions of the theory that the wedding bell sounds the knell of departing romance. Hamilton, who is a park commissioner of Oak Park, protested that he had the right to sit in his darkened car with Mrs. Hamilton. Motorcycle Policeman Herbert Bellly and Paul Ware thought otherwise.

MORE AIRPLANES WILL BE USED ON CLEVELAND LINE

New Passenger Service to Start Saturday.

Additional airplane passenger service over the Chicago-Cleveland route of the Universal Airlines system was announced yesterday by P. G. Kemp, president of the Universal line. The new service will be started Saturday, the same day that this company will inaugurate the new plane-and-train service between here and New York.

In addition to the planes which will carry passengers from here to Cleveland to meet New York Central trains to the east, a new seven passenger cabin plane, delivered yesterday, will make a round trip daily on a different schedule between these two points. The new service is designed to accommodate those passengers who are traveling only between Chicago and Cleveland.

Schedules Announced.

Eastbound planes in this service will leave the Municipal Airport at 8 o'clock, central standard time, and arrive at Cleveland at 11:45 a.m. Returning, they will leave Cleveland at 4:30 p.m. and arrive here at 6:15. In the New York service, planes will leave here at 4:20 p.m. and arrive in Cleveland at 8:05 p.m., in time to make connections with the New York Central Limited, reaching New York the next morning. A similar schedule has been devised for west bound passengers.

In Chicago passengers will make connections with the planes of the Universal Airlines to Minneapolis and St. Paul. Seven passenger planes and metal planes will be used in the Universal line to the Twin Cities, beginning next week. At St. Paul, air passengers may make connections with west coast limited trains or with Universal Airline planes operating two feeder lines to Fargo, N. D. and Duluth, Minn.

Augment Twin Cities Service.

The Northeast Airways company, which operates another line to the Twin Cities, yesterday announced the opening of additional service over this route. The first plane operating on the new schedule arrived here last night carrying a load of passengers and mail.

Under the new schedule two round trips will be made daily, one by a fourteen passenger plane and another by an eight passenger plane. The

Instead of the family chauffeur who had been summoned to take her for a drive, Mrs. Harry Israel, 4758 Ingleside avenue, was confronted by four armed men yesterday when she answered the door in response to a ringing.

Fogging their way in, the quartet terrorized Mrs. Israel, her 16 year old daughter, Eleanor, and a maid by their threats and demands for money. The women were guarded in the living room while the bedrooms were searched and jewelry worth $1,450 seized by the bandits. 14 Cities Offer Lap Prizes Along the Way.

New York, Sept. 4.—[Special.] Forty-one planes, tuned up to the peak of their efficiency, rested in hangars and in the open today at Roosevelt field, Long Island, while twice that number of aviators stood about chattering of flying conditions, motor speeds, and gas consumption. The planes are to take off at intervals of one minute, beginning at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning, in the transcontinental race with Los Angeles as the goal.

They will make sixteen stops en route. Fourteen of the sixteen cities near which they will halt for food, fuel, and rest have offered "lap prizes" of about $600 each to be awarded to the pilot or pilots making the quickest time from the preceding stop.

All of the planes are powered by only one motor except the Friendship, in which Amelia Earhart flew across the Atlantic. This ship has three motors. It will take off with Harry Rogers at the controls. Donald Wood will be in command of the second.

A lone entrant, George Haldeman, who attempted a trans-Atlantic flight with Ruth Elder. He will fly a Bellanca monoplane. The Waterhouse biplane, powered with a Hispano-Suiza motor, in which L. Cornall is making a bid for the prize was also attracting considerable attention.

MALMGREN'S MOTHER PRAISES NOBILE FOR "HIS GREAT KINDNESS"

ROME, Sept. 4.—(UPI)—A letter from Mrs. Anna Malmgren, mother of the lost Swedish explorer, Dr. Finn Malmgren, to Gen. Umberto Nobile, leader of the wrecked Italia expedition, was published today in La Tribune. It was signed: "Yours affectionately, Anna Malmgren," and in part says:

"Dear Gen. Nobile: I have not the right to talk of public opinion and such things, but I can assure you my sympathy for you is unlimited and will always remain so."

"I have many things to thank you for, but over all my heart is moved most by your great kindness in passing me a house in Aspikviken on your voyage to Svalbard. I am sorry I was unable to encounter you upon your return and thank you personally for all you had done for my son. On several occasions you spoke of him with highest eulogy, and that has been a great consolation for me."

"My son himself respected and esteemed you very much, and his friendship for you was profound and sincere. I, too, feel it is duty to tell you aloud that I am absolutely convinced your reciprocal friendship remained unaltered even when he left on the expedition which was doomed to be his last. I believe Capt. Zapp's words. He and Capt. Mariano, with whom I had the pleasure of a brief visit, evidently did all they could for my son and I shall always hold them as men of honor."

FIELD MUSEUM MEN MAKE NEW FINDS IN ARCTIC

MacMillan Gathers 6,000
New Specimens.

SURVEY, N. S., Sept. 4.—(P)—The MacMillan's seventh venture into the Arctic and sub-Arctic in behalf of the Field Museum of Chicago, was drawn to today with one of the principal objects of the exploration still determined—proof that Norsemen had reached Labrador.

The expedition aboard the schooner Winnipeg put in nearly two months from Labrador, for fun and then prepared to continue on to Wismar, Germany, from whence it sailed in June.

Although the explorer brought no conclusive evidence to convince Eskimos and other tradition of Norsemen having been successful in fixing the boundaries of Arctic plant, fish and bird life at a much farther north than had been previously supposed. Included among were many varieties hitherto not thought to exist in those regions.

May Be Norse Ruins.

We have so far been unable to discover any conclusive evidence that the Norsemen ever reached Labrador.

MacMillan said: "My men held, however, is that they probably did. The legends of the Eskimos luxuries of home were to be found

ROAD MEETING ASKS MCHENRY COUNTY'S HELP

Seeks Support for Wider Radial Highways.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

McHenry county is losing a golden opportunity to establish itself as a Chicago suburban area. It was pointed out by Mayor Fred Mathis of Crystal Lake yesterday at a meeting of wider highway adherents at Woodstock. He expressed the opinion that, with proper highway facilities, McHenry county would offer definite competition to Du Page county, into which Chicago's overflow suburban population is being washed, despite the transportation defects of that area.

"We are in the field for suburban development," Mayor Mathis said, "but unless we have the facilities for rapid motor travel between here and Chicago, we can not expect much to come of it."

Wants Side Roads First.

Judge Charles Allen of Cary informed the group that he was not so warm on the proposal for road widening, unless there is first completed a program to build narrow roads between all the small settlements in the country.

"I am in favor of wider roads, provided they are built for the traffic of today, but I want to see the side roads built first."

The meeting at Woodstock was one of a series of inspirational gatherings being held under the direction of the Chicago Motor club at the various key points situated along the proposed seven radial highways which the club's program includes in its proposal for widening to forty feet, from the Cook county line to a distance of 100 miles or more, depending upon traffic conditions.

Bulger Outlines Program.

An outline of the club's program was detailed by J. E. Bulger, representing Charles M. Hayes, president of the motor club. In his talk he explained the foundation proposal for seven radial highways, widened as suggested, among which is state highway 18, connecting with Madison, Wis.

"There are 100,000 car owners in the city of Chicago who are as bad off with respect to roads as the motorists of the state were in 1916, when the state had no roads at all," he said. "In fact, it has become customary for average car owners to refrain from driving out on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays because of such serious congestion that they do not know whether they will get home alive, or if they do, on which day they will get back."

Unanimously for Wider Roads.

"The problem is not that of Chicago or Cook county, however, but of the state. Cook county has its 40 foot roads to the county line. Out in the state, traffic meets a bottle neck. It is to the interest of this community and to all the communities of the state that roads be provided which will let the Chicago motorist come into the areas to visit or settle down to live if he desires. His inability to reach you is a definite cash loss to you."

Attorney David Joslyn expressed the view that the McHenry county community is practically unanimous in its demand that the Chicago radials be made adequate in width to accommodate existing traffic and the volume of traffic which will exist only a year or two hence.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 4.—(Special)—Regulations governing chain station broadcasting are under consideration by the federal radio commission and will probably be announced in the near future, it was said yesterday. After a hearing before United States Commissioner James R. Glass, she was returned to the county jail cell she had recently vacated to await removal to Oklahoma.

HELD IN AUTO DEATH.

Pearl City, Ill., Sept. 4.—(Special)—O. L. Fuller, DeSalvo, has been held on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of Tom De Salvo, restaurant proprietor who was shot last night by two unidentified men, was attributed to his use of "Old Crow" and "Old Log Cabin" labels on whisky he is alleged to have made. Deputy Sheriff Pence is investigating the shooting.

Pence stated that friends of De Salvo said he had been warned to use different labels. Authorities blame the slaying to rivalry between two bootlegging factions and predicted the arrests of two suspects within 24 hours.

HILL WINS DELAY IN 2D TRIAL FOR MOTHER'S DEATH

HIGH COURT SOON TO DECIDE FATE OF STEPHENSON

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 4.—[Special]—D. C. Stephenson's appeal from a murder conviction in 1925 will be decided within a few days, it was announced today by Chief Justice David A. Myers. Stephenson, former Klan dragon, was given a life term for the murder of a young woman.

Justice Myers made the statement during an argument over the right of Judge John C. Richter of the La Porte circuit court to hear a habeas corpus action through which Stephenson seeks release from prison on bail.

Myers said, "the question of whether the conviction of Stephenson of second degree murder is right or wrong will be decided in a few days."

"We are interested in any implication that Judge Richter, who has had a long and honorable career on the bench, would not have followed the law and that he would release any one not entitled to his freedom," Attorney Linn J. Oare, attorney for Judge Richter, told the court.

Stephenson, state's attorney, continued the move, and Hill's attorneys had previously refused to state on what grounds they would base their plea, continued to tell their case for asking a delay in secrecy.

State Agrees to Delay.

Less than 150 words were exchanged during the entire hearing. As Judge Davis took his place on the bench Col. Chipperfield said:

"We have entered a motion for a continuance in this matter and have advised the state's attorney and his counsel of our reason and cause; and I have gathered the idea that in their opinion our reason and cause is sufficient. If so, it is not necessary to take a great deal of time at this point."

Judge Davis looked toward the attorney for the state, inquiring whether he had any to say, gentlemen?"

Escape Curious Crowd.

Col. Chipperfield replied: "Mr. Chipperfield stated the facts, your honor, and we do not feel disposed to resist the motion for a continuance at this time;
we are satisfied that—"

"Very well," replied the judge, "the court will act upon it accordingly."

Harry Hill was arrested in Seattle not a year ago, charged with the murder of his mother, whose body was found buried in the basement of her home, Aug. 22, 1927.

Hill was first tried last winter, but the jury that heard his case was unable to agree.

AN INVITATION

THE new Packard Standard Eight is here. We cordially invite you to call and see this long-ruled car. It introduces ten additional and beautiful new models into the Packard line.

You will find the new car somewhat smaller and lighter in weight than the famous Packard Custom Eight—but powerful, fast and luxurious.

It includes every refinement and improvement made possible out of a long experience in building cars with straight-eight motors, together with a number of important inventions among which is the new and exclusive Packard Shock Absorbing System.

This system is a combination of Packard and European inventions and positively makes the Packard car not only the easiest riding car in the world but also the safest to drive—for the dangers of front wheel shimmy and steering whip have been absolutely eliminated.

We want you to drive one of the new cars and put the Packard Shock Absorbing System to any test your ownership would ever call for. We know that you will buy no other car once you experience the comfort and safety features it offers.

Packard owners and those who hope to become Packard owners will be delighted to see that the distinguished beauty of Packard lines has been preserved.

Fundamental beauty can be but refined, and this Packard has done. No tribute has been paid to passing vogue for Packard cars far out-live any vogue that lasts but a year or two.

Depreciation is largely a matter of appearance, and in this respect Packard has once more protected the interests of those who have bought as well as those who are to buy.

When may we see you? Any interest you show in our new cars will be most courteously considered. We do want you to know of their new features and in particular of the shock absorbing system which, together with the most luxurious upholstery ever used in Packard cars, makes each in truth—The Restful Car.

The Packard Standard Eight is offered in two wheelbase lengths—126 and 133 inches. The prices range from $2435 for the luxurious five-passenger Sedan to $2835 for the Sedan-Limousine (prices at the factory).

We will apply the value of your used car against the first and monthly payments on a new one, if you prefer to buy out of income as so many do. And like many, you may find that the value of your used car will equal or exceed the amount of the first payment, leaving your largest cash outlay the amount of any one monthly payment.

Beyond Yardsticks

Here's how one day's Tribunes would look in a single stack!

Imagine a solid pillar of printed pages—more than half a million pounds of newsprint and 8,200 pounds of ink—soaring skyward two and a quarter miles. A taller spire than twenty-one Washington Monuments or twenty-five Tribune Towers, placed on top of each other! Yet, if one daily issue of the Tribune could be stacked, one copy on top of another, the top paper would flutter in the clouds two and a quarter miles above the earth's surface. Such is the comparison necessary to appreciate the immense circulation of the Tribune.

Only advertisers who use this towering circulation to smash their messages across to millions of Tribune readers can appreciate the meaning—in sales power and results—of 800,000 Tribunes daily and more than a million on Sunday.

The New York stock market entered its monthly report last night. Further evidence that speculators are increasing the amount of speculation. The report shows that members on Aug. 31 were $14,477,405 on collateral loans of $314,089,725 due in the second half. This passed the previous high record of $14,381 on May 31, or since market entered

The conclusion from this is that brokers are probably outside of the New York district, either with branch members of the reserve board or not lend their funds through the New York office with other firms. It is not the first day of the reserve board figure of stock exchange. These figures probably give some idea of the extent to which speculators are engaged in securities. On the other hand, the board data include new flotation of stocks and which have little market speculation.

STOCK TRADERS' AUGUST LOANS OVER 5 BILLIONS

BY O. A. MATHER.
The New York stock exchange issued its monthly report on loans to its members last night. It thereby gave other evidence that the federal reserve authorities are unable to determine the amount of credit devoted to speculation.

The report shows that stock exchange members on Aug. 31 were owing an average of $32,405,328 during the month.

In the second time such loans have passed the five billion dollar mark, the previous high record being $5,274,221 on May 31, or just before the stock market entered the June slump.

Increase is Unexpected.

An increase as this has been expected by followers of the weekly reports issued by the federal reserve board and containing loans made to brokers and dealers in securities by the New York federal reserve member banks.

On Aug. 1, the reserve board reported such loans at $4,259,396,000 and as of Aug. 31 the total was $4,255,148,-

While the reserve board reports over two days less than the New York stock exchange report, yet the reserve board shows a decline of $24,248,000 for the period, while the stock exchange shows an increase of $24,000,000.

The committee on banking and currency of the New York federal reserve committee states that brokers are placing large loans outside of the New York federal reserve system either with banks that are not members of the reserve system or do not lend their funds in the stock market through the New York member banks or with other lenders.

It is not the first discrepancy between the reserve board figures and those of stock exchange. The stock exchange usually gives the better picture of the extent to which brokers are speculating, because most of its members are actively engaged in stock dealing.

On the other hand, the reserve board data include loans to dealers in securities. That takes in borrowings on securities in process of distribution, which have little to do with stock market speculation.

Little New Financing.

There has been frequent criticism of the reserve board data because there is no separation of loans to brokers and those to dealers. There has been no new financing in the last month, and dealers have tried to move their unquoted bonds and stocks in their bank accounts. This fact is coupled with the statement that brokers have been borrowing from big corporations and other firms who do not report to the reserve banks for account of the preexisting discrepancy in the reports.

If the reserve board cannot separate its figure on loans to brokers and to dealers, and if New York federal reserve member banks are able to secure large loans outside the New York federal reserve system, then the reserve reports will give no value as criteria of speculation.

The monthly stock exchange figure will have to be awaited.

Slow Tide of Speculation.

The slow tide of investment in speculative stocks is shown in data compiled by Lawrence Stern & Co., Chicago investment bankers. New note and bond datings last month totaled only $132,320, the smallest total for any month in the last five years. The current figure compares with $472,464,200 in August, 1927.

No single new foreign issue was shown in the American market nor did the railroads produce a new loan, while less than $12,000,000 of industrial issues were brought out. In the public utility field, new offerings amounted to $77,400,000. Tax exempt and real estate issues accounted for $69,577,000 and $24,230,000, respectively.

The total for all offerings for the eight months this year was $4,714,832,400, compared with $5,419,522,300 for the same period last year, a decrease of about 15 per cent.

Bimonthly Head Returns;

Stock Slump No Surprise

New York, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A. P. Giannini, California financier, on his return from Europe today, declined to discuss a recent statement, the result of which was fluctuations in the stock of the Bimonthly Corporation, of which he is president. He has "certain definite recommendations for the benefit of our shareholders." His statement declared he was not surprised at the midsummer slump, and margin holders of Bimonthly stock, he said, were warned in time to "get themselves in the money." The institutions themselves, he said, were in better condition than a year ago.

Oil Companies Vote Extra Dividend Payments

Dividends were declared by directors of two oil companies yesterday. The Standard Oil company authorized an extra payment of 50 cents a share and the Humble Oil and Refining Company announced an extra of 20 cents a share. Directors of the Twin City Gas and Transit company omitted the usual dividend of $1 a share due on the common stock at this time. The regular quarterly of $1.75 a share on preferred stock was declared.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOOGS

SNUFFER.
The young Elizabeth is the adored daughter of Tim and Elizabeth Darcy. When she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief, all the townspeople run away again, this time from school and to the home of her Aunt Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizing with her more than with the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whithy.

Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war and themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring a young playwright, to take over one of their performances.

After the end of the war Mrs. Whithy dies suddenly and Elizabeth learns to consider that her aunt had friended away the money left by her husband, and she disposed of some of Stephen's inheritance. Afraid to face Stephen after this arrangement, Elizabeth would ask him to get her a job on the street. Stephen finds his help and advice and takes a place in Mrs. Whithy's play. On the street, he gets into trouble with a man who happens to be in London visiting his cousin, Mrs. White's house. The latter offers her a job as a maid to an old lady in the country. Julian Weston, the old lady's grandnephew, arranges with his cousin, William Whithy, to take over the management of the house. Elizabeth grows fond of Mrs. Weston, who showers attention upon her young charge and reveals secrets and secrets a mystery about the atmosphere of the house finally gets on her nerves and she grows weary of it. She wants to get away, but Mrs. Weston will not release her. She realises she has held a prisoner. Her letters to Stephen are unanswered. She manages INSTALLMENT LVII. SAFE AND FREE.

Elizabeth was amused at a question she could not understand. "You're my sort of guardian!" she retorted. Then her voice grew sullen. "I suppose we were too much taken up with your widow!"

"So there's a widow as well, is there?" hissed Mrs. Smike. Nothing surprised her now. Let 'em all come, clothes or no clothes! She was ready for anything.

Stephen looked wildly at his landlady and at the bathroom door. What did Elizabeth mean, and how like her to make difficult things more difficult? He was going to see to it that the poor, starving child had her folly, but that was immaterial. She had had a bad time somehow or other, and if he could not enter fully into the terror of the mind, he could enter the full horror of an empty stomach.

"O, Elizabeth, hurry up and do be sensible!" he implored her. "I've got out of here!" shrieked Mrs. Smike. "Take shame to yourself." "Who are you?" asked Elizabeth, surprised. "O, another lodger, I suppose. Have I kept you out of your bath? Sorry. Hope I haven't snuffed all hot water."

"O, well, one's only young once," he said.

Mrs. Smike gasped again. Back-chat from one of that kind! It would be the minister-grandfather turn in his grave. "Come out at once," she cried. "I'm the landlady."

"O, are you?" said Elizabeth. "Splendid! I say, do go and see to my will, will you? About twelve rashes and four eggs, but fried, because I never really trust London eggs."

"In a minute I shall have hysterics," threatened Mrs. Smike. "I never! Pellen, Mr. Pellen!"

An elderly man put his head out of a door near. "What is wrong?" he asked.

"Wrong! Everything! Mr. Pellen, Mr. Whithy here has brought in a most premonitious without any clothes. He's put her in my bath—and a terrible woman! And what do you think, he's ordered me to get them made!"

Mr. Pellen looked enviously at Stephen and sighed. "Ah, well, one's only young," he said, and going back shut his door.

"Why shouldn't I have breakfast and a bath?" asked Elizabeth, splashily. "Stephen, have you left that dressing gown? I'm almost ready."

"She orders you about, too—"

"The modern world tyrannizes over her guardian," said Stephen with a smile. "She will not go without breakfast, so please see to it. I will be away afterwards—and myself, too," he added angrily.

"Very well," said Mrs. Smike, realizing that further resistance would lead to an open scandal. She went down to the kitchen, but she was pleased when Elizabeth trailed into the room swathed in Stephen's dressing gown. The visitor was flushed and radiant and looked like a contented baby sat down. She had her freedom, and Stephen, and breakfast. For a moment she even forgot the "widow." Stephen was very funny and sweet and she felt quite maternal. Surely never in the world did girl look so innocent.

He followed Mrs. Smike into the hall. "Don't you see how absurd your wisdom were?" he demanded eagerly.

"I realize that ladies goes in for it now," she returned, adding indigently, "taking the bread out of the mouth of the deserving poor."

Stephen went back into his room, his brow very black, but as he looked at her he smiled. It was annoying, but it was also absurd not to be serious. He filled and refilled the runaway's plate, feeling curiously young, and light hearted.

"I must go out and get some clothes," he said when the meal was over. "Then I must get quarters for you—and for myself."

"But why are you leaving?" she asked, astonished. "The cooking is A-1, and splendidly hot."

"A damned sight too hot for my liking!" exploded Stephen, adding quickly, "the fact is I don't like the landlady."

"I thought she seemed queer, the way she looked at me. I mean," said Elizabeth merrily. "Perhaps she drinks. That would account for it."

"Yes, that's it," he agreed basely. "So I'm clearing out at once. Now tell me what really happened?"

The girl's face changed at once, eyes and voice grew wild. "O, she was a devil!" she cried.

He looked his amazement. "That pretty, little, sweet old lady!" Her voice rose hysterically.

Stephen found it impossible to believe such a thing, but he saw that she was thin and drawn; terrified eyes looked out of their purple shadows.

"It was thin, hell, Stephen. There were dreadful things in Moat Hill," he said. "Once they had happened to me. All the dreadful things had happened them. Once they had happened to that Elizabeth and it began to seem as if they must happen to me. All the things as if my life was being sucked out of me by some dreadful thing."

"She clung to him, shuddering. "And I grew weaker and weaker, really weak."

He looked at her and his heart contracted. The flesh brought by hot sweat had faded, leaving her face of an almost green whiteness. It was thin and drawn; terrified eyes looked out of their purple shadows.

"It was thin, hell, Stephen. There were dreadful things in Moat Hill," he said. "Once they had happened to me. All the dreadful things had happened them. Once they had happened to that Elizabeth and it began to seem as if they must happen to me. All the things as if my life was being sucked out of me by some dreadful thing."

"She clung to him, shuddering. "And I grew weaker and weaker, really weak."

He uttered an exclamation. They had told her of those unspeakable things.

He could have killed that old woman.

Excess Baggage Shows Haines Is Real Actor

'Grain of Dust' Somewhat Resembles Story.

development. It does so engrossingly.

The pathos of the tale is brightened by gay incident. The entire atmosphere is that of the theater and the "back stage" glimpses into the lives of the children actors always are fascinating ones.

Can it be that I cared much for Josephine Dunn as the wife. She's pretty and capable enough, but devoid of spark. And there is the young actress—woman singing—that's unnecessary, and badly done. It's only a flash, however, and scarcely worth mention.

In all other regards "Excess Baggage" is a dandy.

Good morning! "Excess Baggage" is an important picture for two reasons. First, it has been produced with intelligent reticence, as, undoubtedly, all successful movies will be after the present sound delirium has died out and the fevered producers recovered somewhat from their rush of gold to the head. Second, it provides William Haines with a brand new variety of rôle which divorces him absolutely from the smartaleck stut that made him and demonstated unquestionably that he is an all around actor, not merely a one-gram.

For the above two reasons, "Excess Baggage" is notable, but it is also in other ways a commendable picture, checkful of interest and charm, and most excellently produced.

If you saw the play from which it was adapted you know its hero is a vaudeville juggler who marries a dancer, and, by adding a dangerous "slide for life" to his act, gets the Big Time. He carries his wife with him, though she has just given birth to a son, but stands and awaits him with open arms when he makes his perilous swoop on the tight rope from dome to stage of the theater. I remember, Mr. Phillips' heroine was not quite as obviously crude as is the picture's particle portrayed by Alma Bennett. But my recollection of the story is hazy and the film as it stands is interesting if not entirely convincing.

The players, with the possible exception of Miss Bennett, are seasoned ones. Claire Windsor, looking perfectly beautiful, is the hero's inspiration and true beloved, and it's nice to see her playing against girls, scenery, and photographs are okay, and so, in the main, is the direction.

*A Discerning Eye, Mirror, and, Presto!
—Your Best Coiffure*

FARM AND GARDEN
BY FRANK RIDGWAY

On the subject of coiffures again today because it is a matter of concern to many. I should say that it was during the more arbitrary bob-headed era.

If you're not happy with your coiffure there are a few questions you might ask yourself, also determine for yourself to the best of your ability:

- "Does my hair look best straight and plain or soft and fluffy, or would one of those loose, wide waves that make some straight hair looks more interesting be better for me?"
- In order to answer your very personal query you will have to try the different styles out on your own personal head.

It is assumed, of course, before you make any experiment, that you have carefully attended it from the cleanliness angle before you make any beauty attempts with it.

Before making a hurried decision as to the wave or style you prefer, consider the character of your features. Say, if a woman has a prominent nose the art she must try to conquer is how to build out the shape of her head above and below the line of her nose. The mass of hair should be above the nose line. If she has long hair arranged at the nape of her neck, then it should be pulled out fairly full over the ears. If you think the nose is slightly broad, when the nose is prominent it is forced into further prominence. If the nose is broad you have pretty much the same illusion of more breadth.

It is amazing what one can do to facial features with both the right and wrong coiffure. You, as well as I, saw frequent demonstrations of positive face-uglyfying by that gargoyle of a woman, Mrs. Gandy, who had a broad face narrowed, by a clever arrangement of the hair.

If one has a mirror, a good eye, and a strong desire to emphasize the good facial points and minimize the less good ones—all she needs is the mirror and the good eye and the desire to make them work for her better-beauty interests.

MISCELLANEOUSDorothy Vilas to Wed
John D. C. Towne Jr.
Ceremony Nov. 17

BY THALIA

If you relish news concerning the various romances rife in the community we offer for your delectation and information a brief of items of interest, a wedding date, an engagement, and a list of wedding attendants. Miss Dorothy, only daughter of Mrs. John D. C. Towne of 44 Banks street, is the prospective bride, who has set the day for her marriage to John D. C. Towne Jr. for Nov. 17.

That is to say it is an afternoon wedding, and will add another to the long list of society nuptials that have been announced within the portals of St. Christopher's church. Miss Vilas, who recently returned from a summer vacation in the Midwest, has not selected her attendants. They will include some of the dearests of last winter with whom she made her bow.

As for the engagement: Mrs. Charles Klotz of Winnetka and Palm Beach inform me that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cochran of Emporia, Va., are arranging the engagement of their daughter, Doris, to the Klotz' son, Charles D. Klotz. The wedding is to take place in the near future. Young Klotz spent his summer vacation with his father at Rocky Mount, N. C. Klotz' daughter, Mrs. H. Ausendroff (Dorothy Klotz), who with husband and infant son, Peter, been occupying the Klotz residence this summer, the while Mrs. Klotz piled up new golden honors, moved on Monday to Hibbing, Minn.

The bridal party is for Miss Grey Scott, daughter of Mr. and Robert Lindsay Scott of Evanson and Donald Waite Rogers, Miss Ballinger of Evanson, Mrs. Cameron Gordon of Philadelphia, Mrs. F. Langdon Hubbard, the cousin of Gross Point, Mich.; Alice Judson, Mrs. Donald Kline and Mrs. Anna M. Kline, Mrs. Donald S. Leslie of Minnetonka, who is the groom's sister, Mrs. Donald Phelps Welles of Forest, another cousin, are to give the feminine half of the attendants. Arthur R. Rogers of Minneapolis is to be best man for his son, and the ushers are Richard L. Brown, Paul M. Kinney, Donald S. Walker, Andrew J. and George J. Walker, all of Evanson; Arthur Rogers of Minneapolis, Frank Hall Nixon II, of Riverside, and Donald Phelps Welles of Lake Forest.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. John Scott of Pasadena, Cal., is to be the bride dinner the night before the wedding, Oct. 2, at the Glen View

Mr. Joseph S. Kornblau, wife of an American envoy to Persia, is in the coming week-end in Chicago. She will be accompanied by daughter, Miss Rose Mary Kornblau, who is to leave shortly for Smith College.

One of the important events of the season in Evanson is the annual mat hall, for the benefit of the mat college scholarship fund, and given by the local alumnae. It has been set for Oct. 18 this year and is to take place at the Evanson Country Club. Mrs. Donald McAllister is general chairman of the arrangements, and is also to take charge of the ticket sale. Mrs. Lawrence Norem (Deeblee Case) is to manage the publicity. Mrs. Manly S. Mumford, the manager, Mrs. Ralph Maxon, the music, Miss Virginia Helm, the house committee, and Mrs. Edward Price, the floor committee. Subchairmen for the ticket sale, and other committees are to be appointed later.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sherman of 115 Linden street are to be given a tea at their residence. Misses Mary and Eleanor Sherman, at the Indian Hill Country club on Saturday afternoon. The young women who are to receive tea include Miss Margaret Quan, Miss Cynthia and Miss Suzanne Kohl, Miss Katherine Adams, Miss Mary Louise Fenton, Miss Patty Fowman, Miss Marianne Stevenson, Miss Helen Dawes, Miss Louise Badgley, Miss Josephine Dennehy, Misses Mary and Helen Truelove, Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Foster of the West Walton place had a house party at their summer place, Meadowbrook, near Derby, Vt. The guests included Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, Mrs. Charles W. Fields, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Bloodgood of Garden City, Long Island, Peter Hunt of Provincetown, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence. The Lawrences and the Fields have purchased tracts of land in the vicinity with the idea of establishing summer homes. Mrs. Fields' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Erwin E. Camp of 1815 North Dearborn street, have returned from a month's stay with them.

Miss Pauline has returned from Paris and is staying at the Ambassade Hotel. She and Mrs. Carleton J. Holloman, formerly of Chicago, now reside in Paris, where they are the garden party at Burlington pavilion in July, which is a GARDEN PARADE. Capital letters mean anything to emphasize the importance of the occasion.

Miss Mary Pomeroy Green of 1149 South La Salle street is in San Diego, after visiting Yellowstone and the Grand Canyon National parks, Palo Alto and Los Angeles, Cal.

Training Child Is Also Problem of Parents' Training

H. Gladys Huntington

The young horse that deliberately walked into the harness would be a most unnatural animal.

The child who preferred the traces of necessary parental authority to romping through life at his own sweet will would be a most unnatural child.

So as the report of the National Kindergarten and Elementary School of Evanston, quoted yesterday, said, many mothers find themselves confronted with the great problem of discipline.

And this is not a trifling difficulty—whether children eventually outrun it or not. It is an obstreperous master. It sticks out like a sore thumb, disobedience itself. It causes discord and friction to permeate many years of a child's life. It is hard for the relation between him and his mother, because struggle, or contrariness, or even antagonism, will come in its wake.

In the report it was stated that disobedience was frequently the result of the methods used by the parents. I am inclined to go farther and say that habitual disobedience is practically always the result of mismanagement by those in charge of a child.

Here are two instances that happen to know of personally. And when there are two there are two thousand or two hundred thousand like them.

One mother is of the easy going type. She says:

"John, pick up all your trains and put them away."

John continues to play with the trains.

His mother repeats the command in a mild tone, which he again ignores. After this has happened perhaps five or six times, his mother says in a futility provoked tone: "All right, John, I'll have to tell you when he comes home."

Now she may tell his father—and she may not. In any case, John is ready to take a chance.

The other mother is equally easy going up to a certain point.

She will say: "Stop that noise," or "Wash your hands," or "Leave that alone," or "Keep the dog off the bed," without one command being obeyed and without following up one of them. Then, suddenly, at the ignoring of a last command, she will become exasperated, lose her temper, and give the child a really hard spanking.

Now you can blame them for their disobedience?

France Buries Its Air Chief with Full Honors Today

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Paris, Sept. 4.—With only the members of his family, Premier Raymond Poincaré and his cabinet officials and the diplomatic corps present, the national funeral of the late Minister of Air and Commerce Maurice Bokanowski, who died in an airplane crash Sunday, will be held at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at the ministry of commerce.

No discourse of any kind will be given, and the ceremony will follow that prescribed for all national funerals.

The late young minister's mother, who has been widowed in a hospital at Vichy, is still unaware of her son's tragic death. Physicians feared that the shock of the news would be fatal to her, and she may not learn of the accident for months.

Bulgarian Government Hands In Resignation

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 4.—The Bulgarian government handed in its resignation today but, owing to the illness of the president, the council has not yet accepted it. It is believed that Premier Andrei Laptschikov will again be asked to form a government.

"Dus fine," was my little neighbor John's, unvarying reply to my morning greeting. "How are you this morning?" "It's one day he was not feeling well and when I asked my usual question he said:

"Well, I'm not dus fine." M. A.

My little son Rudolph is almost always in some mischief. One day I heard something fall, and little Rudolph came in crying and holding his head.

"What fell on your head?" I asked.

"I did," he sobbed.

The young sister of 3 year old Dicky was discussing him in his presence and referring to him as the baby.

After doing that two or three times, he turned to her and said: "Don't call me baby. I am a big man."
